The Transylvania Music School-Camp, which is being established near here at Camp Transylvania, will open on Tuesday, June 13, with an enrollment of at least 125 boys and girls from various Southern and Eastern states and with a staff of approximately 30 trained and talented artists from Davidson and Queens colleges, James Christian Pfohl, director, announced today.

The school is being established here as a result of a merger of the school-camps at Davidson college and Queens college by Prof. Pfohl who directs music at both institutions.

"This is an ideal location as music and art are closely allied with nature and certainly the mountain scenery in Transylvania is indeed beautiful," he said.

Boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18 will be enrolled at the camp. The main season will close July 23 and from then until August 6, a post-season course will be offered for all students who wish to continue and participate in a program of public appearances in recitals, concerts and dramatic productions. YANKS START MOP-UP OF BOUGAINVILLE JAPS

WHAT LOOKS LIKE an advertisement of a wartime scene is in reality a grim game of life and death in the Bougainville jungle as American soldiers clamber from their foxholes to fall in behind a tank for mop-up operations against the Japs. One soldier in the foreground, rifle at shoulder, is poised to fire at a Jap. This picture was taken after a series of enemy attacks in which the foe lost 7,000. Signal Corps photo.
