INVESTIGATIONS NOW UNDERWAY IN GOLDEN DEATH

Caretaker In Buck Forest Found Dead Mon. Morning From Pistol Wound

Investigations are now underway by members of the county law enforcement department as well as the FBI into the pistol death early Monday morning of Joseph E. Golden, 73, watchman and caretaker on the Buck Forest estate of Frank Cox in the Little River section.

A coroner's jury here Monday night decided to recess until May 24 in order to allow the bureau of investigation technicians time to study the bullet taken from the body to determine whether it was fired from the pistol Golden had with him at the time of the tragedy.

Found near Triple falls early Monday morning after an all-night search, the body was discovered by Jess Stalcup, Jones Garren and...

BROUGHTON SPEAKS OUT

J. Melville Broughton in a series of speeches over North Carolina during the past week said he is seeking the job of U. S. senator from this state on the strength of his record as governor.

Broughton was governor of North Carolina through most of World War II. Although prosecution of the war held the center of the stage, he claims a number of forward steps in state progress were enacted while he was governor.

Achievements Listed Among these achievements: (1) Passage of nine month and twelfth grade school laws; (2) establishment of the teachers and state employees retirement system; (3) removal of sales tax from foods for home consumption; (4) reorganization of state hospitals and correctional institutions under consolidated boards; (5) launching of the movement which resulted in the state's good health program.

In a statement in this week's issue of The Times, Transylvania supporters of Mr. Broughton point out why their candidate should be elected.

WANTS TO RETURN

U. S. Senator William B. Umstead said this week that he wants to return to Washington in January "under a commission directly from the people."

Labor—Voted for the Taft-Hartley bill because he "believed the substance of the bill was necessary to maintain the proper balance between labor and management"; voted to override the president's veto.

Taxes—Voted for the Republican income tax cut bill in 1947, but to sustain the veto; voted for the GOP tax cut bill this year and to override the veto.

NEA DELEGATES TO CLIMAX TOUR WITH VISIT HERE

Convention Program At The Plant To Be Broadcast. Straus To Speak

NOW TOURING STATE

As a climax to their sixty-third convention and tour of North Carolina, members of the National Editorial Association will visit Transylvania county Friday and have lunch in the cafeteria at the Ecusta Paper corporation as the guests of this large cigarette paper manufacturing company and of President Harry H. Straus.

Approximately 400 N.E.A. delegates and guests from nearly every state in the nation are expected to visit this county and these editors and publishers will see "the land of waterfalls" and make a tour of the world's largest and most modern cigarette paper plant.

The large delegation plans to arrive here by bus from Asheville at one o'clock. The Ecusta band, under the direction of John Eversman, will give a concert on the lawn in front of the cafeteria for the visiting scribes. While they are listening to this outstanding band, colored movies will be made of the group.

After the luncheon a brief program will be given featuring entertainment by the Ecusta Recreation department. This program will be broadcast over station WBBO at Forest City, 780 on the dial, as well as the band concert from 1:15 until 1:30. The main program will be heard from 2:15 to 2:45 or 3:00 o'clock.

President Straus will give the address of welcome. Alan McIntosh, of Luverne, Minn., and a director of NEA, will respond. Jerry Jerome, president of the Brevard chamber of commerce, will extend greetings from Transylvania county and John Anderson, —Turn To Page Four
