GOVERNOR DEWEY

Hundreds of polls taken by experts throughout the country show unmistakably that Dewey and Warren will be elected next Tuesday. Some of these polls were made many months ago . . . some of them were local, others were regional, still others were of national scope . . . but all of them indicated the overwhelming desire of the American people for the National Republican standard bearers.

Political writers are virtually agreed that the Republicans will retain and very possibly may strengthen their control of both houses of congress.

What does this mean? Simply this: That after January 20 of next year, the Republican party will control both the executive and the legislative branches of congress.

We believe that, in view of this inevitable outcome, it is to the advantage of North Carolina and Transylvania to elect men to offices within their gift of the same political faith.

Here in Transylvania county, we are offering a slate of capable and conscientious men. They are, each and every one of them, fully qualified to discharge the duties of the offices they seek. Consider them individually and as a group and do as millions throughout the country will do—

GOVERNOR WARREN
