Transylvania county are becoming more and more a combination of agriculture and industry, which is an ideal set-up," Mr. Straus pointed out. He introduced Warley Parrott, patent attorney of Charlotte, who made several humorous remarks. Elmer A. Hilker, Charlotte attorney, author and lecturer, was guest speaker for the occasion and addressed merchants and their guests on the subject, "Looking

Home Agent Lists Plentiful Foods

Cheese and eggs have moved to the forefront of the February list of plentiful foods, just released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Anne Benson Priest, home demonstration agent for the State College Extension Service, points out the flush production season for eggs has begun, and that fresh eggs will be plentiful in all important producing sections. February egg prices are expected to follow the customary seasonal downward trend, she said. Unusually large stocks of cheese have accumulated in recent months, leading to sharp price declines during the season when prices normally rise. Most plentiful fruits of the month will be fresh and processed citrus fruits and winter pears. Plentiful vegetables include Irish potatoes, cabbage, carrots, onions, and spinach. Georgia broiler producers, along with growers in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina, will send abundant supplies of broilers to markets during the months, Miss Priest reported, to provide consumers with a delicious meat for February meals. In addition to the foods listed, the home agent said plentiful supplies of honey, pecans, peanut butter, canned corn, peas, and cranberries, dried prunes and raisins, fresh and frozen fish, and corn and oat products will be on the market. Dried beans and peas should be plentiful also, to offer menu planners an excellent source of vegetable protein and food energy.

REVENGE

A banker's typewriter broke down, so he asked a merchant next door to loan him one. The merchant readily agreed, but asked, "What security do you have to offer?"

It's wise for you to establish a line of credit with your bank. After this is done, the matter of security isn't too important.

Ahead." Mr. Hilker was introduced by Jerry Jerome, who paid tribute to the prominent man and briefly outlined his background. "This is a time of year for looking ahead," the speaker pointed out. "This is the ideal time to get a prospective of what we wish to accomplish in life . . . we must learn that everybody has troubles and to look upon our own objectively. The world will go on and on in spite of our doom, and the worries of civilization will seem to be swallowed in years to come." Mr. Hilker urged his audience to "Keep an abiding faith and confidence in the sober judgement of the American people. A strong faith in humanity will eliminate the fear, tension and hate today," he said. "We need rest in quietness that comes from the silence and wisdom of God. Our bodies and minds will be recharged from this spiritual silence, and we must resolve in this way to dismiss our problems in the presence of the Almighty. "I strongly believe in the power of concentrated thought as a cure for all the ills of man. Let us keep our thoughts in the great channel of faith—faith in ourselves, faith in our nation, faith in the world, and, most of all, faith in God," the speaker concluded. "Bridget," said Mrs. Smith-Brown to her old servant on the day of the big reception, "I want you to stand at the drawing room door and call the guests' names as they arrive." Bridget's face lighted up. "With pleasure, ma'am," she said. "I've been wanting to do that to some of your friends for years."
