Industries Contribute To Loyalty Campaign

OVER $6,000 IS RAISED TO DATE FOR THE COLLEGE

Pledges Amount To Some $12,000. Work Will Be Intensified

THANKS EXPRESSED

During the past few days, two fine contributions have been received in the Brevard College Loyalty campaign, according to Jerry Jerome, the treasurer.

These donations were made by the county's two largest industries, the Ecusta Paper corporation and the Silverstein Industries.

"With these contributions, more than six thousand dollars has been raised in cash in the drive, and pledges over the three year period total more than twelve thousand," Mr. Jerome declares.

The drive is being continued throughout 1951, and work will be intensified when the fall term begins, according to John Anderson, chairman of the Brevard chamber of commerce committee, which is conducting the campaign.

"Contributions will be greatly appreciated and should be mailed to Mr. Jerome, the treasurer," the chairman stated yesterday.

In letters of appreciation to the industries, President Ehlhardt of the college said in part:

"An academic institution cannot survive without the support of its community, and particularly the support of the industries which are its neighbors. We, therefore, are grateful for your recognition of the service which we render to this community and to the children of your employees, and we hope that, under the new administrations of both organizations, we will be drawn even closer together to build, not only a greater community, but further develop the intellectual and commercial resources of this area."

BLOODMOBILE TO RETURN TUESDAY, GOAL IS 125 PINTS

Chairman Stresses Urgent Need At Home. No Appointment Needed

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will return to Brevard next Tuesday afternoon, August 7, from 12:30 to 6:00 o'clock at the American Legion Memorial building. The quota is 125 pints.

In urging citizens generally to give a pint of blood, C. B. Carter, the overall chairman, says today that the center in Western North Carolina is having difficulty supplying local needs and that recently a supply had to be obtained from Tennessee.

Recruiting co-chairmen, Rev. John D. Smith and Mrs. E. B. Garrett, Jr., are this week getting pledge cards signed, but no appointment is needed next Thursday afternoon.

They state that persons 21 through 59 years of age, male or female, may give. It is urged that at least eight weeks separate each donation of blood.

The Asheville center serving Transylvania has a monthly quota of 850 pints for local hospitals, 1,350 pints for defense plants, plus weekly requests for whole blood to be flown directly to Korea.

Red Cross officials emphasize the fact that there is no charge made at hospitals for the blood that patients receive. However, there is a slight charge made by the hospitals for transfusion, necessitating cross-matching, typing, and administering the blood. Red Cross receives no part of this charge.

Red Cross Making Appeal For Books

The Transylvania chapter of the American Red Cross is making an appeal this week for donations of 300 comic books, western books and pocket novels.

Persons who have these at their homes and no longer need them are asked to leave the books at the Transylvania county library by Mrs. Oliver H. Orr, who is chairman of furnishing allotments to Moore General and Oteen hospitals.

Mrs. Orr explains that this chapter each month sends needed articles to the hospitals. Usually, funds from the chapter are taken to pay for the supplies. She points out that since these books are useless after having been read once people should be happy to contribute them for the veterans hospitals.

Anyone who cannot get the books to the library may telephone Mrs. Orr.
