District Principal Admires Indian Portraits

Even Nursery At Hospital Crowded

The attractive, but overcrowded nursery at Transylvania Community hospital is pictured above and MISS INEZ DUCKER, staff member, is shown holding one of the most recent "stork bundles." During the past year, 288 babies were born at the local hospital, and on several occasions every bassinets was full. Included in the proposed Harry H. Straus wing will be a new obstetrical department with expanded nursery facilities. (Times Staff Photo)

BELIEVE HUNTING WILL BE BETTER, RANGERS REPORT

One Of Each May Be Killed. Other Improvements To Aid Sportsmen

CAUTION URGED

Monday, November 19th, marks the opening of the 1951 deer and bear hunts in the Pisgah National forest here and on the many private hunting preserves throughout Transylvania.

Hundreds of hunters from throughout Eastern America will arrive here this week end, and rooming and boarding houses are expected to be filled.

Advance reports indicate that about the only way hunters should miss seeing a deer in Pisgah next week is by keeping their eyes shut.

Pisgah rangers report that, despite the toll taken by wild dogs, poachers and wildcats, the herds are bigger than ever.

Hunters will check in at the Davidson river checking station at 6:00 o'clock next Monday morning and good hunting is expected. Each hunter will be permitted to kill one buck or bear, and rangers warn that only deer with visible antlers may be killed. No bear with cubs may be taken.

During the hunts, the gates to the forest roads will be closed and posted with guards. The ranger advises all persons to remain out of the forest during the deer and bear hunting season except hunters and those having urgent business.

A bow-and-arrow hunt will be staged on Bent Creek for sportsmen who like to try for their game the hard way.

Aiding the hunters in the wildlife management areas this season also are the wide trails and jeep roads that were cut through them last summer.

Plan Dedication Of Town's Water And Sewer Systems

A formal dedication of the new water and sewer systems of Brevard will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 27, 1951, at which time townspeople and many out-of-town visitors will be invited to inspect the modern and expanded systems of the town.

Mayor John A. Ford has invited officials from all towns and cities in Western North Carolina, state executives and representatives of the U. S. Public Health service to the dedication, which will be held at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon on Nov. 27, at the treatment plant. This site is located just below Ross Hall, adjacent to the Brevard college campus.

During the day, townspeople and other distinguished visitors will be taken on conducted tours of the reservoir and the disposal plant. At 1:00 o'clock on the 27th, the John J. Harte company, of Atlanta, Ga., which planned and carried out the expansion programs, will give a luncheon for town officials, visitors from other towns and other guests at the Brevard college cafeteria.

Mayor Ford said yesterday that he wants every citizen to make a special effort and see the fine water and sewer systems on the day of the dedication.

"We are very fortunate and lucky to have started these projects when we did. During the recent dry spell when most every town and city in North Carolina suffered a water shortage, we had the largest supply in the history of the town," the mayor declared.

Funds for the water and sewer projects were made available last year when Brevard voters approved a $500,000 bond issue.

The resolution, recently adopted by the town board, declaring November 27, 1951, as the date of dedication of the water and sewer systems, is as follows:

ANNUAL SEAL SALE WILL BE LAUNCHED HERE NEXT WEEK

Proceeds Will Go To Fight Tuberculosis In Transylvania County

The annual appeal for funds by the Transylvania Tuberculosis association gets underway Monday, November 19, and will continue through December 25. Letters containing Christmas seals or health bonds will be mailed on November 19, it is announced by Miss Lillian Zachary, seal sale chairman.

The 1951 sale of Christmas seals will be conducted by the local tuberculosis association to raise funds for the tuberculosis control work of the organization. The majority of the funds raised this year will be used to defray expenses of the large X-ray survey which will take place in Transylvania during 1952.

In addition to the expense of the survey itself, a certain amount of follow-up work must be carried on.

As was the case when the X-ray unit was here in 1950, there is no charge to the citizen who is X-rayed, yet he is the one who profits by the program, Miss Zachary said.

Says Condition Of Golf Links Improved

The Brevard country club and golf course will be opened officially to the public this week end, and Manager Garland Mitchell says the condition of the links is improved.

"With some sunshine, we should have a very playable course," he commented.

For the next two week ends, Saturday and Sunday nights, food will be served in the clubhouse, he states, and a more permanent schedule will be adopted after that time.

PAINTINGS OF CHEROKEES ARE DISPLAYED HERE

Collection In High School Library. Students Showing Much Interest

By FRANCES WALKER
A renewed interest by history students in the dismal story of the Cherokee nation, due largely to the drama, "Unto These Hills," is evidenced today in the Brevard high school library where a collection of paintings of Indian leaders is now on display.

Secured by the art committee of the P.T.A., these six paintings were loaned through the Asheville Artists Guild, which prepared them for showings in this section. They came to Brevard from Pack Memorial library, Asheville, and had been shown previously at the Cherokee Museum only. The pictures are copies of originals and are characterized by their vivid colors.

A few years ago students' scant knowledge of the Cherokees was confined to the fact that they live on Qualla reservation and are a quiet, peace loving people. Since Kermit Hunter's brilliant contribution "Unto These Hills" students

"Watch The Mercury" Slogan Of Hospital Building Fund Members

"Watch the thermometer on the court house square" is the by-word this week of the members of the building fund committee of the Transylvania Community hospital.

The mercury is expected to start soaring as the canvassers cover the town and county, Chairman Ralph Ramsey said yesterday.

Each time a thousand dollars comes into the local fund, it will be marked on the thermometer.

A total of $77,360 must be raised here, with the Medical Care commission furnishing $122,640 if the local amount is raised by December 15.

Ecusta management and employees have set $40,000 as their goal, and response is reported to be good.

Joe Poole Enlists In Army On Wednesday

Joseph Poole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Poole, of Maple street, Brevard, enlisted in the U. S. army for a two-year period last Wednesday, November 7, according to Sgt. W. W. Phillips, recruiting officer in this area.

Poole is now at Fort Jackson, S. C., where he will receive his basic training or be re-assigned. He is a graduate of Brevard high school in 1949, and in September graduated from Gupton Jones college of mortuary science, in Nashville, Tenn. Since that time he has been associated with Moore funeral home.

Smith And Roy To Speak Sunday At Methodist Church

Miss Ruth Smith, of the board of missions of the Methodist church and a native of Western North Carolina, will speak at the Brevard Methodist church Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. J. Julian Holmes, the pastor, announces.

A graduate of George Peabody College for Teachers, she also attended Scarritt college and Garrett Biblical institute. She was commissioned a deaconess in the Methodist church in 1948.

The Rev. Holmes also announces that Rev. C. E. Roy, head of the religious department of Brevard college, will deliver the 11:00 sermon at the church on Sunday morning.

Col. Brevard Is One Of Principals In Forthcoming Davidson Biography

Many hitherto unknown facts about Colonel Ephraim Brevard, the man for whom this city was named, will be revealed in the forthcoming book, PIEDMONT PARTISAN, written by an English professor at Davidson college, Chalmers G. Davidson.

This biography of General William Lee Davidson has the distinction of being the first book ever printed at Davidson and is published by the college, since it is the life story of the man for whom the institution was named. There is much Brevard family history in this new book since General Davidson married Mary, daughter of Squire John Brevard, and sister of Ephraim. The two families had an inveterate tendency for intermarriage for several generations.

Written originally as a PhD dissertation at Harvard university, PIEDMONT PARTISAN has been revised and rewritten for popular consumption. Professor Davidson collected photostatic copies of all of General Davidson's letters, which had been scattered from

Record Crowd From Here Is Expected At Canton Game Friday

Present indications point to a large crowd of Transylvanians attending the Brevard-Black Bear football game in Canton Friday night.

Clarence Bowen, manager of the bus terminal here, says that special Trailway buses will be available, and he expects to have five or six bus loads going to the game. A special round-trip fare of $1.50 will be charged.

It will be the final game for the Blue Devils, who have the fine record of eight wins and only one loss for the tough 1951 season. For the benefit of local persons unable to attend the annual classic, a play-by-play description will be carried over WPNF, beginning at 8:00 o'clock Friday night.
