HOLMES SPEAKS AT LIONS MEET

Much Business Transacted Prior To Talk. Next Event Will Be Ladies' Night

Rev. J. Julian Holmes, pastor of the local Methodist church, in an address before the Brevard Lions club Thursday night said that if our citizens generally had some of the characteristics of the Puritans who came over on the Mayflower they would have no difficulty in maintaining a spirit of democracy, brotherhood and freedom.

Some of the qualities ascribed to the Puritans by Mr. Holmes were a spirit of surmounting difficulties; they were also a working people, who believed in the importance of individuals and a good name; they were also a people who believed in principle and education; and they believed God was vitally important.

Mr. Holmes said he was glad to be an American and pointed out many reasons why the people of this country should be thankful at this season.

Don Peters was a guest of President Medford.

Ned Medford, president, who presided, announced that a committee consisting of Dick Pierce, Forrest Cudd and Ralph Fisher, would operate a dime board on the square two week ends before Christmas.

THE DOCTOR TAKES A WIFE by Elizabeth Seifert: All three of the women wanted him—and, at different times in his life, he wanted all three. Red-headed and charming, idealistic and life-loving, Dr. Phil Scoles held in his skillful and powerful surgeon's hands not only the lives of many patients but the hearts of three very different women: Marynelle, who tried to possess him; Page, whose brilliant mind and coldly beautiful face and body were a challenge to him; and Min, passionate, loyal and honest—too honest, in fact, for her own good. Dr. Scoles' great gifts for life and love needed fulfillment in his work and in his marriage too—and he found both, where he least expected! With this new book Elizabeth Seifert enriches the long list of "Doctor" stories for which she is affectionately known throughout the country.

About the writer: Elizabeth Seifert.

Since her first novel, YOUNG DOCTOR GALAHAD, won the $10,000 Dodd, Mead-Redbook prize, Elizabeth Seifert has written a score of novels, most of them about American doctors and their problems—professional, social and domestic. She says that she has always been "preoccupied with things" in the medical world, its very human foibles, its great ac-

ADVICE GIVEN ON WINTER DRIVING

Booklet Lists Six Basic Rules For Safety At This Time Of Year

By STAFF WRITER

Brains plus chains equal sound advice on snow and ice!

That is a streamlined summary of the many important recommendations contained in "Basic Winter Driving Rules," a new booklet just published by the National Safety Council which sets down for the first time the results of 11 years of test research by the council's committee on winter driving hazards.

The booklet is aimed at reducing the high death and accident rates resulting from inadequate traction and reduced visibility—the major winter driving problems from November through February.

Six basic rules for safe winter driving are offered:

1. Get the feel of the road. Try your brakes occasionally, while driving slowly and away from other traffic, to find out just how slippery the road is.
2. Slow down. Adjust your speed to road and weather conditions so that you can stop or maneuver safely.
3. Keep windshield clear. You must see danger to avoid it, so be sure your headlights, windshield wiper blades and defrosters are in topnotch condition.
4. Use tire chains on snow and ice. They cut stopping distances about in half, and increase starting

From A Reporter's Notebook

The thousands of men, women and children who lined the streets Saturday to watch the parade will agree, I'm sure, that it was something just wonderful! Brevard's Christmas parade was a credit to the community, and would have been to any town many times over the size of ours. It was a community project, spearheaded by a Rotary committee, in which merchants and businessmen cooperated beautifully. Which float was the prettiest? Would these decisions be hard to make? It was all so exciting I felt just like one of the children there. A real parade such as this should prove to be quite a boon to Christmas trading in Brevard. We hope that it will become an annual event, growing in size each year.

The float sponsored by Cash and Carry and Belk's was one of my favorites, and it probably caused more comment from the crowds. This float was the one decorated with the old-time horse and wagon showing the couple and their children going to deliver wrapped gifts in the bed of the wagon. Mrs. Ashe Macfie and Eb Morrow were riding the float dressed in 19th century garbs. One of the most impressive floats was that sent from Asheville by the newspapers and radio station. It was all white topped with a huge star with girls dressed as angels on either side of the star. Below them were children in the costumes of angels, shepherds and wise men. The creation of these floats must take a spark of genius, for they were all so attractive and extremely different. We would like to throw bouquets from this corner to the local merchants who sponsored floats and hope there will be more next year. The one in which Santa arrived was paid for by numerous individuals and group contributions. So while we are throwing bouquets here goes one to Pete Doyle and Otis Ridgeway who worked harder than anyone else to make the parade a success. Had it not been for their untiring efforts there would not have been a Santa Claus float; and there probably would not have been a lot of other things which were in it to make a marvelous 42-unit Christmas parade.

It is in keeping with our American way of life that each year
