Piano Workshop At Brevard College In August To Attract Large Number

All Eastern, Southeastern States To Be Represented. Is Fine Publicity

The annual Frances Clark Piano Workshop, which has formerly taken place at Virginia Intermont college in Bristol, Virginia, is this year moving to a new location at Brevard college. The seven-day refresher course for piano teachers and students is directed by Frances Clark, nationally known teacher, author, editor and director of classes for teachers. A large enrollment from southern and eastern states is expected.

Miss Clark, who is director of piano pedagogy at Kalamazoo college in Michigan, is well known to southern teachers. In addition to her annual summer workshops, she has given short courses in Washington, D. C., and in New Orleans, Louisiana, and was the principal speaker for the piano division of the State Music Educator's conference in Atlanta last February.

In addition to her classes for piano teachers, Miss Clark is widely known for her work as a teacher-training program at Kalamazoo college which has been copied in colleges and universities throughout the country. She is the author of two workbooks on reading for piano teachers, "A Pianist's" and "Reading Technique" and of numerous articles on piano teaching methods and materials.

Associate director of the Workshop is Louise Goss, well known teacher, author and music critic. Miss Goss has been a piano instructor at Kalamazoo college, an instructor of music literature at the University of Michigan, music critic for the "Michigan Daily" in Ann Arbor and the "Kalamazoo Gazette" in Kalamazoo, Michigan. At present she is devoting full time to the Frances Clark Workshops

Rotarians, Chamber Of Commerce Plan Tour Of Music Camp Friday

In order to better acquaint townspeople and summer visitors with the many activities at the Transylvania Music camp and the improvements that have been made at the institution, tours of the camp will be conducted on Friday during the morning and afternoon.

These tours are being held through the cooperation of the Rotary club and the Brevard chamber of commerce, and they will originate at the chamber of commerce office on the court house lawn. Hours are from 10 to 12 o'clock on Friday morning and from 2 to 4 o'clock that afternoon.

On arrival at the camp, groups of Rotarians and campers will be on hand to personally conduct the tour and answer questions. Mrs. Duncan Hunter, of the public relations department of the camp, is in charge of camp arrangements.

Mrs. John Ford, the executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, and Dan Hawkins, presi-

Lions, Ladies Will Meet Next Tuesday Night, Music Camp

Brevard Lions will meet next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock at the Transylvania Music camp for a dinner meeting.

The event will be a ladies' night affair, and President Vernon Fricks urges all members to attend and to bring their wives.

Following the dinner meeting, the visitors will be guests at the regular Tuesday night concert, and prior to the meal a tour of the camp will be held.

The meeting was originally planned for this Friday night, but has been postponed until next Tuesday.

Members Of First Methodist Church Vote To Move To Site Near College

The congregation of the First Methodist church voted Sunday morning in favor of the erection of a new church building, to be located on the site opposite Brevard college between Broad and Caldwell streets.

The congregation also endorsed a financial campaign to raise funds for the erection of the new church building.

Ray Hooper, chairman of the board of stewards of the church, presented the proposals and pointed out the dire need of a new building on a more adequate location.

During recent weeks, members of the board of stewards and trustees of Brevard college have discussed the possibility of erecting a church on the site opposite the college. The trustees at their annual meeting offered the tract of land, which contains about three acres and includes the site of the former President Coltrane house, to the church.

It was pointed out that this location would be near the center of dent of the Rotary club, cordially invite all interested persons to take advantage of this opportunity of visiting Transylvania Music camp, "Summer Music Capital of the South," and to see the camp in action.

Groups will be permitted to watch the various practice sessions and to inspect the new quarters of the camp.

As a preview to the tour, members of the Rotary club and their Rotary Arms held a dinner meeting at the camp on Tuesday night and attended the evening's concert.

Mrs. Hunter welcomed the group, and the response was made by President Hawkins, who presided over the brief business session.

New Photographic Process Will Use Cellophane, Cites Low Costs

A new process for printing photographic effects on cellophane has been developed by the Lassiter corporation, according to J. Hanes Lassiter, president of the company.

The process, called Lassitone, has already been proven successful in actual production runs of cellophane wrapping for two soft good items and a bread, Mr. Lassiter said. Several other items are currently in production.

The new method permits reproduction of half-tone photographs or art on cellophane without the preparation of costly printing cylinders necessary for fotogravure reproduction.

"The Lassitone process allows the smaller users of cellophane, who ordinarily buy in quantities of one to three thousand pounds, to use photographic art for the first

A calendar of this week's program at Transylvania Music camp includes many events of interest. On Friday, from 9:30 to 9:45 the Ecusta Civic hour on station WPNF will present the regular radio program of camp news and topics. A tour of the camp from 10 a. m. to 12 noon and from 2 to 4 p. m., will be sponsored by the Brevard Rotary club in cooperation with the Brevard chamber of commerce. At 6:30 p. m. the Kiwanians will meet for a tour of the camp, and dinner at 7 in the camp dining hall. Following dinner there will be a concert of the Transylvania Concert band, Paul Bryan directing.

Tuesday, July 21, marks the beginning of the summer season.

Plan Blind Bogey At Country Club

A week end blind bogey tournament will be held at the Brevard country club, beginning on Saturday, July 18, with the club offering a number of golf balls as prizes. These blind bogeys will be held each week end for the next three weeks.

There are three categories of prizes—the score, long ball, and closest to the pin. Players will be permitted to pick their own handicaps.

The tournament is open to all golfers, with no charge being made to members. Non-members may enter on payment of green fees.

According to officials of the country club, the primary purpose of the tournaments is to establish handicaps for a handicap tourney to be held at the club on August 22.

Due to adverse weather conditions, work on the course has been slow, but every effort is being made to have the course in a good playable condition by this week end.

Clarks Sell News Stand To Grogan

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Clark have sold the news stand which they operated in the Watermire hotel building to Tommy Grogan, who assumed charge of the business yesterday. Mr. Grogan was formerly connected with "Ayers" store, and his friends throughout the county will be interested to learn of his new venture.

McFee Jewelers In Broad St. Location

McFee Jewelers has moved from West Main street to the building on South Broad street formerly occupied by King bakery, next to Galloway's cafe. The building has been thoroughly renovated and a new front installed. J. C. Taylor, owner, said yesterday that he planned to give away a number of prizes, registration for which will begin on Saturday.

Transylvania Youths Get Farmer Degree

HEYWARD RAMSEY, left, and CHARLES COGGINS, right, recently received the Carolina Farmer degree and they are pictured above inspecting one of the many fine corn fields of Transylvania. Both boys were outstanding agricultural students at Brevard high school and they will enter Clemson college this fall. Young Ramsey will major in agriculture, while Coggins will take civil engineering. The former is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Ramsey, and the latter's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Coggins. In addition to being awarded the degree, Ramsey was elected state sentinel out of the 23,000 boys in 439 chapters in North Carolina. (Times Staff Photo)

Bloodmobile At Ecusta Medical Center For A Two-Day Visit, Excellent Response Is Reported

ROUTINE ITEMS ARE DISCUSSED

Chamber Of Commerce Directors Meet, Plan Festival Promotion

Routine matters were on the agenda at the monthly meeting of the Brevard chamber of commerce at its meeting here Tuesday night, with reports being given on projects started earlier in the year.

Mrs. Lucy Ford, secretary, stated that 81 members had joined the organization this year, and the membership committee was asked to continue work with a view to reach a minimum of 140 active members.

Business houses will be asked to use decorations and window displays pertaining to music and the festival here for one week prior to opening of the Brevard Music Festival in August as a boost for attendance at the annual event to be staged at Transylvania Music camp.

STREET DANCES BEGIN

The Brevard Jaycees have begun their summer street dances, which are held each Monday night in front of the court house. Dancing begins at 7:30 o'clock, and Earl Powell is doing the calling. Townspeople and summer visitors are cordially invited to attend.

Program Highlights

The programs from the National Broadcasting company over WPNF are being enthusiastically received each day and the station is having many fine compliments on the switchover to the world's oldest network, President Ed M. Anderson states today.

"The excellent variety of music, the outstanding coverage of news and the popular dramas of NBC are all proving most popular," the station president continued.

HOSPITAL IS BIG ITEM, RESIDENT BUILDING IS UP

Figures Are Taken From Permits Issued At The City Hall

OUTLOOK IS GOOD

The estimated cost of building in Brevard has hit a new high for a six months' period with the construction of the new addition to the Transylvania Community hospital beginning shortly after the first of the year. The total figure is $355,155, and the cost of construction of the new Harry H. Straus wing is $233,000.00.

During 1952 the total estimated cost of construction in Brevard was $213,160.00, and indications point to a continued increase in building during the remainder of this year. Mrs. Opal King, clerk of the town, states:

Permits for home construction in Brevard during the first six months of 1953 totaled $100,000.00, which compares with $78,100.00 during the entire year of '52.

Estimated costs of business buildings so far this year amounts to $19,450.00, and repairs were $2,205.00.

Construction is progressing nicely on the new hospital wing, and it is believed that the building will be ready for occupancy by early fall.

The building and expansion work at Brevard college is also being continued, and complete renovation of Taylor hall will be finished when the students arrive in September.

During recent months, the beautiful new dormitory for women, on which construction was started last year, was completed, and it is being used this summer to house students and summer visitors.

GAIN REPORTED AT POST OFFICE

First Class Status Retained. Indications Point To Continued Increase

With an increase in the total volume of business during the first two quarters of 1953, the Brevard post office remains in the first class category, Postmaster T. Coleman Galloway reports today.

Brevard was declared a first class office on July 1st last year, and the total volume of business during '52, which was $40,829.67, was sufficient for it to remain in the top category.

This was also true of the two quarters in 1953, when the total volume was $19,151.44. The gain was as follows — 1st quarter — $502.46; 2nd quarter — $817.32, for a total gain of $1,319.78.

Postmaster Galloway says that all indications point to a continued increase in business at the Brevard post office during the third and fourth quarters of '53.

4-H Members Are Attending Camp Schaub All Week

A number of Transylvania boys and girls are attending 4-H camp this week over at Camp Schaub, Waynesville, and another group will leave on Monday for state 4-H week in Raleigh.
