Pisgah Is Most Popular In The Southern Region

Again in 1953 the Pisgah National Forest was the most popular of the national forests in the 11 states of the southern region, it is announced today. The Pisgah attracted 5,365,930 visitors, while the Nantahala, the second most popular one, had 2,-982,010.

The Pisgah figure was almost 2,000,000 more than the 3,245,-990 reported for 1952.

The two forests attracted 6,-800,200 motorists, 702,590 hunters and fishermen, 589,569 picnickers and 202,510 campers.

These figures were contained in the report of D. J. Morriss, su-
