Sidelights On Nomination Of Scott, Douglas Withdraws Name From Race

By KIDD BREWER
FUTURE . . . Although W. Kerr Scott has been nominated with only a shade over 50 per cent of the votes cast, the Democrats should—and no doubt will rally to his support in the general election this fall.
 And, one thing is sure, there isn't much chance Kerr Scott will ever be found voting with the Republicans in the senate.
 His philosophy will in all likelihood put him on the team with Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Russell Long of Louisiana, Paul Douglas of Illinois, John Sparkman of Alabama, Herbert Lehman of New York, and Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. Not bad company, either, and Scott must be constantly on his toes to keep up with them. The U. S. Senate is no place for mental laziness.

county, Scott as he has in the past, really went to town. His vote was 14,793 to Lennon's 9,352.
 Although former State College Chancellor J. W. Harrelson was the front man as manager for Wake, Bruce Poole was largely responsible for lining up the precinct organizations and getting out the vote. His herculean efforts turned the trick in Wake county.
 I don't know how it was in your section, but here in Wake the Scott folks really worked.
 And just who, you might ask, is Bruce Poole.
 Well, he was originally a Scott man, but supported William B. Umstead for governor in 1952. Scott saw betrayal and Poole was moved out as warden at State prison.
 Poole felt that his support of Umstead was not appreciated to any great extent, so he went back to Scott. Incidentally, give any candidate 100 Bruce Pooles and chances are he will carry the state. We understand that Scott had here and there in North Carolina about that many key men who would listen to nothing except Scott victory.

terry man" in the Umstead administration.
 As we said before, had the paper asked me in the first place about my business, I could have told them the same thing they went to a lot of trouble to find out: to wit, my business is not as good as it was under the Scott administration.
CONGRATULATIONS . . . While we are thinking about it, a hearty word of congratulations is in order for Terry Sanford, who managed W. Kerr Scott's successful campaign for the U. S. Senate. He conducted a clean hard fight, and is now as well set as any young man we know in North Carolina to go places politically.
LATER . . . Friends of Conservation and Development Director Ben Douglas should not be disappointed that he has withdrawn formally his name as a possible successor to the late Senator Clyde R. Hoey. He is thinking about the future.
 The reports we get are that he was given assurance of sharp support for another office — probably governor—later if he would not get into the Hoey successor controversy.

Two Former First Ladies Meet

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt (left) shakes hands with Mrs. Harry S. Truman, as former President Truman and Mrs. James Helm look on. They are at a party in Washington given to celebrate the publication of Mrs. Helm's book, "The Captains and the Kings." The former first ladies, including Mrs. Woodrow Wilson not shown in this photo, paid tribute to the social secretary who helped them entertain about 500,000 White House guests through three Democratic administrations.

SLIGHT . . . Some of Carlisle Higgins' friends are still talking about an oversight — or whatever it was — that kept the Winston-Salem attorney and political leader off the stage at the recent State Democratic convention.
 Higgins, who managed William B. Umstead's campaign for governor and who recently succeeded Robert L. Doughton as Democratic national committeeman from North Carolina, was not invited to sit on the stage. Why he wasn't, nobody seems to know. Of course, it was just one of those things that sometimes happen—but it didn't do much to create Democratic harmony in the state.

WEAVER SUCCESSOR . . . We predicted here three weeks ago that Wake Forest's Jim Weaver would be elected as the first commissioner of the Atlantic Coast conference.

He was chosen. Now the Baptists must find a successor.
 Within a few hours after he had been named to the five-year contract (at $15,000 per year) with the new athletic conference, a move got under way among Wake Forest men to bring in Jim Tatum from Maryland as Deacon athletic director and football coach.

Tatum has told friends he would return to this state for a salary of $20,000 per annum. It is common knowledge that he was on the verge of coming to State, but they wanted only a football coach, feeling that they had already an unusually capable athletic director in Roy B. Clogston.

Wake Forest could not afford to pay $20,000 for a head football coach. They could not go that high for an athletic director. But for a combination — and what with Wake moving to Winston-Salem and the need for a big name coach and a broadened athletic program — they might come up with the $20,000 per year and Big Jim Tatum. At any rate, this is all being discussed here and there about the state — and may well supplant Alton Lennon as the chief topic of Baptist conversation now that the primary is out of the way.

CHECKING . . . As reported here, a local paper has been doing a lot of checking and a lot of hunting on Kidd Brewer — but with no startling results. They even referred to me as the "mys-

Mrs. C. Y. Patton In Attendance At A State Welfare Meet

Mrs. C. Y. Patton, Transylvania superintendent of public welfare, returned home Friday night from attending the annual administrative conference at the Sir Walter hotel in Raleigh.
 The sessions opened on Tuesday with a number of conferences and a picnic concluding the sessions.
 Wednesday meetings were held to discuss the varied services of the welfare department, such as aged, children, psychological services, public relations. A business meeting of the state association of superintendents was held in the afternoon.
 The sessions concluded Thursday with a resume of the preceding meetings.
