COMMERCE BODY DONATES $1,500 TO LIBRARY FUND

Directors Also Make Contribution To Rural Development Program

To kick off the $20,000 campaign to build and to equip a new library in Brevard, the directors of the Brevard chamber of commerce voted Tuesday night at their regular monthly meeting to give $1,500 to the building fund.

The new library, which will be located on the court house lawn, will house the chamber of commerce office, a small room on the front, the commerce body will pay up to 25 per cent of the maintenance cost of the new building.

President Vernon Fricks presided over the meeting, and several directors pointed out that the chamber of commerce office would increase the traffic to the library and the two together would be a decided asset to the community.

The directors also voted to appropriate $100 to the Rural Development contest in the county, and

RAMSEY IS HEAD OF BUILDING FUND, NEED SAID GREAT

Many Persons Are Listed On Sub-Committees, Drive To Be County-Wide

PLANS ARE DRAWN

An intensive campaign, covering every community in Transylvania county, will be launched Thursday morning to raise $20,000 to build a beautiful new library in Brevard.

A building fund committee, headed by Ralph H. Ramsey, Jr., in cooperation with the library board, has completed plans for the new library, which will be located on the court house lawn, directly behind the present inadequate and antiquated building.

The new structure will contain 2,200 square feet and will be sufficiently large to serve the needs of today and many years to come, Mr. Ramsey points out.

It will also contain a chamber of commerce office and reading rooms and a workshop.

The $20,000 is said to be enough to build and equip the new library, and with a larger building, more books will be made available each year to the patrons.

Mrs. O. H. Orr, chairman of the library board, stated yesterday that the library had reached a point that its facilities must be expanded to meet the needs of a growing community.

The present building is less than 600 square feet in size and is more than 30 years old. It is a frame building and, being in the fire zone, it cannot be repaired. For years it has been overcrowded, the roof leaks, and it is impossible to properly heat or light the building, Mrs. Orr states.

Serving with Mrs. Orr on the library board are: W. M. Melton.

Brevard College Begins 'Best Year,' Dorms Filled With Capacity Enrollment

Day Students Are Still Being Accepted, Classes Begin This Thursday

Enrollment at Brevard college is exceeding all expectations, President Robert H. Stamey reported at noon Wednesday.

As registration continued for the remainder of the day, a total of 248 chapel seats had been assigned, and indications pointed to nearly 300 students, including the special students in music and business.

President Stamey pointed out that while all dormitory space has been occupied, that there are still openings for day students.

The fact that several out-of-town students were turned away Tuesday and Wednesday gives added emphasis to the $600,000 building campaign, which will be launched as soon as plans are completed, the local college president states.

Classes will begin on Thursday, and Mr. Stamey says the prospects for a good year are the best they have been in a long, long time.

The increase in enrollment made it necessary for several additions to be made to the staff and faculty. Some of the new personnel are replacements, but the majority are new additions.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE PLANS PROJECTS

Booklets Are Being Mailed Interested Citizens. Campaign Is Underway

The Brevard League of Women Voters is planning a number of projects as the league resumes its fall activities, the first of which is the publication and distribution of an attractive booklet called "Know Your League."

The booklet was mailed this week to persons who have shown support of the organization in the past and also to additional ones who may have the interest in league activities but not the time to participate.

Finances in the league are dependent upon membership and outside contributions. During the coming week two teams of members will solicit from persons who have indicated an interest in the organization. The goal is $225.

Mrs. Bruce Brown, finance chairman, explains that this will not be a door-to-door type of solicitation but funds are asked only of business.
