Little Items Of Lively Interest About Folks And

Flower Gardening

By Mrs. S. R. Harrington

"Down my garden path I'm straying, Feasting on the beauty there; Great blush roses, bending, swaying, Spilling fragrance on the air. Here, a bit of Sweet Alyssum, There, my soft-eyed pansy beds, While behind, in great splendor, Dahlias lift stately heads."

—Willhide

It is quite a thrill to have a beautiful garden. Those of you who have one know the joy they can bring. While we can still enjoy the flowers until frost, let's think of landscaping the home grounds to make it more attractive to visitors and passers-by, and more enjoyable to us who live there.

First, your front yard should NOT be over stuffed with plantings. In planting trees and shrubs, be sure they contribute in some way in making your house more attractive, either by emphasizing its good architectural features, or by softening the effect of poor ones.

Second, a carpet-like green lawn, well kept at all times is a must for the "home beautiful".

If you have a new home—unplanted—then you must make a beginning to tie your house into its surroundings. If yours is an established planting, now is the time to make necessary improvements. Play safe and sketch your plantings on paper and make all changes there, for it's much easier than planting and changing afterwards.

Bear in mind that everything you plant or build in the way of fences, walks, driveways, etc., should be in harmony with the architecture of your house.

A good idea for new and old home-owners alike is to look around and put the things to work for you that you like, but be sure they are correct for your home.

In landscaping your home, remember these things:

1. The doorway, focal point of the landscape picture, should be invitingly accented with shrubs to its dimensions.

2. Shrubs should be well spaced to exhibit their growth habit. Spreading shrubs should predominate in front of the house as a foundation accenting the horizontal line of the house.

3. Trees should NOT cover the windows.

4. Trees should "frame" the beauty of the house—not hide it.

5. Walkways are important. A cut flagstone walk reflects the formality of the house. Its soft tones nicely weld the two lawn areas (each side of walk) together, giving further unity to the landscape picture. However, as I said before—materials used in walks, etc., should harmonize with the house.

Davidson River Day Set Sunday

The annual Davidson River Day observance will be held this Sunday by the congregation of the Brevard - Davidson River church.

The regular morning service will be conducted at 11 a. m. in the Masonic Temple by the pastor, Rev. Ben F. Ormand.

A picnic lunch will be spread at noon back of the Temple, after which tours of the new church structures will be conducted by members of the building committee.

If you have a brick home, use a brick walk; a stone or block house, use the same for walkways.

6. A good lawn ties the entire picture together. Do not clutter it with excessive planting, flower beds, ornaments, etc. These things belong in the rear or at the side of the house in a private area.

FLOWER FLASHES: Mrs. Ralph Paxton's geraniums are gorgeous—a glowing bright orange! — Mrs. E. J. Whitmire has large zinnias planted around her mailbox—so very colorful. It's an idea for each of us to copy. Think how pretty the highways would be with flowers at every mailbox — Mrs. C. C. Garren's potted plants are the most luxurious ones imaginable — Mrs. Bill Owen's pink cleome and cosmos look luscious enough to eat — Mrs. J. N. Morris has many lovely flowers waving to passers-by — Mrs. Oren Matthews' driveway is lined with fairy-like white hydrangeas and glamorous flowers of many kinds and colors — Mrs. Russell Eubanks' pansy bed is exceptionally lovely. Ditto for the brilliant garden flowers, too.

So long, gardeners.
