BEAT HENDERSONVILLE . . . "Beat Hendersonville" is the cry you hear around Brevard this week, especially at Brevard high school. And after watching the Blue Devils roll up 90 points in two games, many local sport fans actually believe Brevard can win the game. However, the Bearcats are favored by 13 points. The game should be a free scoring one, since both teams have much offensive punch. Defensively, the Bearcats appear to have the edge, since they outweigh the Brevard line 20 pounds to the man. In the backfield, Hendersonville is built around one man — Bob Elliott, who carried the ball three fourths of the time against Enka last Saturday night. Brevard, on the other hand, has four good running backs, and our kicker, Wayne Babb, is head and shoulders above our Friday night opponents. Wayne probably set some sort of a record last Friday night when he kicked eight straight extra points. And should Brevard's running and passing attack bog down, Wayne can split those uprights with field goals. 'Nuff said.

HUNTING IN THE AIR . . . The recent cool spell caused hunters in Transylvania and throughout Western North Carolina to get out their guns and start making plans for the hunting season. The US Forest service and the NC Wildlife Resources commission have mailed out application blanks for the big game still hunts, and they can also be acquired at the ranger's office here in the Pisgah National forest. The season opens on November 19th, with advance application not required after the first day, and it closes on December 1st.

EXPECTING GOOD SEASON . . . From all reports deer hunting should be good this fall. Signs point to more and larger deer in the forest this year than in many, many years. Preparatory to the hunting season, the wildlife resources commission has published a pamphlet concerning the management areas and much space is given to the Pisgah. Our preserve here is said to be the forerunner of all other western wildlife management areas. Two paragraphs in the article are worthy of reprinting and are as follows:

"When George Vanderbilt bought the preserve in the late 1800's, the western part of the State was practically devoid of deer. Mr. Vanderbilt imported northern stock to build up the remnant residual herd, and his careful protection was continued by the United States Forest Service and subsequently by the Wildlife Resources Commission. The intensive logging conducted during the 1920's resulted in literally thousands of acres of dense forest reproduction which constitute excellent deer range. This, in turn, was the basis for the build up of the tremendous deer herds in the late 30's. The black tongue disease outbreak which struck in 1938 and 1939, together with growth of the forest beyond the deer browse stage, has resulted in a substantial decrease in the population from its peak years. Currently, systematic logging followed by timber stand improvement cutting by the Forest Service and browse cutting by the Wildlife Resources Commission, together with the many acres of supplemental foods in the form of pasture plantings contribute to sustaining the population at as high a level as possible.

In addition to deer hunting, which still constitutes the major attraction of the Pisgah area, there is also provided good squirrel, grouse, raccoon and opossum hunting. Deer hunting on the Pisgah area is different from that on most of the others in that the hunter is also allowed to take bear. Another outstanding feature of the Pisgah is wilderness hunting on Big Creek and Cantrell Creek. These are relatively remote sections which attract those who prefer hunting under primitive conditions. Camping facilities for those who wish to hunt on a daily checkin basis are available near the checking stations on Davidson River, North Mills River, Bent Creek and Pisgah Ledge.

Blue Devils Look Great In Win, 56-0, Now Meet Hendersonville

Locals Trounce Reynolds In One-Sided Contest. Several Make Scores

Looking great in every department, the '56 grid machine at Brevard high school shifted into high gear shortly after the opening whistle last Friday night and went on to solidly trounce Reynolds high by the score of 56-0.

Head Coach Wayne Bradburn used "every man on the bench" and the score could have been much larger than it was. In fact, two touchdowns of the Blue Devils were called back because of penalties.

Brevard led 28-0 at halftime, and racked up 28 more points in the second period.

Larry Pickelsimer, who played a beautiful ball game at the quarterback slot, handed off on the second play from scrimmage to Captain Cecil Lowery who scooted 55 yards to score.

Reynolds fumbled in the opening moments of the game and Brevard recovered. On the first play Pickelsimer handed off to Charles Winchester who ran from there for the second touchdown.

Brevard drove to the eight in the second quarter and Winchester carried a handoff the remaining eight to score. Later in the period, an intercepted pass resulted in Brevard's having possession on the Reynolds nine. A penalty carried back to the 21 but Jack Thomas ran across from there.

Lowery carried the second half kickoff 90 yards to a touchdown to open the third period. Iryban Lowery recovered a blocked kick a few moments later on the Reynolds one-yard line and Phil Moody plunged for a score.

Later in the period, Winchester intercepted a pass and returned it 15 yards to the Reynolds 10. A five-yard penalty moved the ball back to the 15 from where Wayne Babb scored. Pickelsimer plunged one yard for the final score.

Babb highlighted the game by kicking eight straight extra points.

Brevard 14 14 28 0—56
Scoring touchdowns: Brevard—Lowery 2 (55, run; 90, kickoff return); Winchester 2 (38, run; 8, run); Thomas (21, run); Moody (1, plunge); Babb (15, run); Pickelsimer (1, plunge). Conversions: Brevard—Babb, 8 (placement).

BRADBURN HEADS BLUE RIDGE LOOP

Local Head Coach Succeeds Bob Tate. Cage Season Plans Discussed

Wayne Bradburn, head coach and acting principal at Brevard high school, has been elected president of the Blue Ridge conference.

He succeeds Bob Tate, of Hendersonville.

Charlie Poindexter, of Bethel, is the new secretary and treasurer, and with President Bradburn he will serve on the executive committee with the following: Bill Swift, of Waynesville; Bill Lance, of Erwin; and, Bill Barclay, of Canton.

George Cathey, of Enka, is the new vice president.

At the last meeting of the more team with scores of 571 and 563, while Link topped the losing Baker team with a 551 total.

With a 512 total, Gillespie led the Banks team over the Chatterbox, which was led by Watson with a 498 total.

Bearcats Will Be Favored Friday Night. Many To Attend From Here

Brevard's Blue Devils, fresh from two rousing victories in which they scored 90 points, are all set to travel to Hendersonville on Friday evening for the annual classic with their arch rivals.

Hendersonville has also chalked up two wins this season, and the Bearcats will be favored on their own field.

A large delegation of Brevard fans, led by the outstanding Brevard high school band, will attend the big game. Kick-off is set for 8:00 o'clock.

In Brevard's opener, the Blue Devils won over Blue Ridge, S. C., by the score of 34-6, while the Bearcats rolled over Owens. The locals romped by Reynolds last Friday, 56-0, while Hendersonville toppled Enka 35-19.

Coach Wayne Bradburn said yesterday that his charges are in good condition, and, "We hope to play Hendersonville a good ball game."

The Blue Devils will be outweighed about 20 pounds to the man in the line, but Brevard appears deeper in the backfield.

"Our boys are eager and they'll be ready to go Friday night," Coach Bradburn declared.
