FRESHMEN BEGAN ARRIVING SUNDAY, CLASSES STARTED

New Dormitories Are Filled.
Freshmen Number More
Than 250

PRESIDENT QUOTED

All indications point to one of the most successful years in the history of Brevard college, which is this week beginning its 103rd year of religious and educational service to the state and nation.

Registration figures were incomplete on Wednesday, with freshmen continuing their selection of curriculum. The first year class is expected to number 250, and total registration should exceed 400 students.

Freshman students arrived on Sunday, filling the new men's and women's dormitories.

Upper classmen will complete their registration on Thursday, having pre-registered last spring. Classes for freshman begin Thursday and for sophomores on Friday.

Local residents were invited to a reception at the college Saturday evening to inspect the new dormitory facilities. This was the first social event on the campus.

The next public event will be a piano recital on Friday, September 28th, in the auditorium by Peter Ford and Mrs. Louise P. Miller. Both are members of the music department, Mr. Ford being a newcomer this year. He is a graduate of Yale University and received his master's degree in music from Converse college.

In welcoming the students to the campus on Sunday, President Robert Stamey predicted the best year ever because of the wide support of the college, a larger and entirely competent faculty, and enlarged physical plant.

SCHOOLS CLOSE ALL DAY FRIDAY

Principals And Teachers To Attend Western District
Meeting Of NCEA

Transylvania schools will close all day on Friday of this week in order that local principals and teachers may attend the 34th annual convention of the Western District of the North Carolina Educational Association in Asheville.

Supt. J. B. Jones says the day was made up the first of this year, and approximately 3,000 teachers, principals, superintendents and others will attend the Asheville meet Friday.

The one-day meeting will be highlighted by a general session in the auditorium of the Lee G. Edwards high school, and Dr. William H. Plemmons, president, Appalachian State Teachers college, will deliver the convention's principal address.

The five divisions of the NCEA will hold meetings during the day, and professional problems will be discussed during the day.

Little Theatre Try-Outs Planned On Monday Night

The Brevard Little Theatre try-outs for casting of the first play, "John Loves Mary", will be held in the courthouse Monday evening, September 24th, it is announced by Don Stoneback, BLT president. Mr. Stoneback issues an invitation for all interested persons to attend, and adds that if casting is not completed after the first try-out, they will be continued Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Kathleen Ormand is serving as casting chairman, and she also issues a cordial invitation for anyone interested to attend. All through try-outs will begin at 7:30 p. m., persons may stop in the courthouse and read at any time after that.

Coffee will be served throughout the evening, and officers of the organization will form a hostess table.

Strong Protest Is Made Here Against Action Of WNC Football Officials

Community Given Unfavorable
Publicity. Meeting
Slated On Friday

Transylvania school officials made a strong protest Wednesday morning to the action of the WNC officials association Tuesday night when Brevard was placed on probation for one year for alleged incidents that occurred in the Hendersonville-Brevard football game last Friday night.

Supt. J. B. Jones wired Dr. J. L. Pierce, chairman of the Athletic Advisory commission, State Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, Wednesday morning the following telegram:

"I wish to protest trial, conviction and unfavorable publicity for Brevard by Western North Carolina Officials association without accused being given an opportunity to be heard."

The executive board of the association met Tuesday night in Asheville and heard the officials of the game testify that they were subjected to abusive language on the part of Brevard players, the Brevard head coach and fans both during and after the game.

Coach Bradburn has denied the accusations, and together with assistant coach, Bill Milner, he will attend another special session of the board Friday in Asheville.

The nature of the action taken by the Officials Assn. Tuesday night is as follows:

Brevard is to be placed on a one-year probation, during which time the school will receive no football officials for its home games unless the association gets a guarantee from the county superintendent of schools and Brevard High School officials that game officials will receive adequate protection against any abuse.

If this agreement is violated at any time, the association will discontinue sending officials to Brevard's home games altogether.

The officials who worked the Business Firms Change Locations

Two Brevard firms, Cash Wholesale Grocery and Sledge Radio and TV, are moving into new locations.

Curtis Kelley, owner of the wholesale grocery concern, has sold his building on the corner of Gaston and Jordan to Mr. and Mrs. John Reece Sledge, and he will move his concern into the building adjacent to Brevard Lumber company on King street.

Mr. Kelley says the new quarters will give his concern room for more storage.

Sledge radio and TV will be moved from its location on Caldwell street later this fall, after the —Turn To Page Five
