

THE LAUGH CORNER

Lawyer: Well, if you want my honest opinion— Client: No, no. I want your professional advice.

Heard in an English air-raid shelter during World War II: "It there a macintosh in here that's large enough to keep two young ladies warm?"

It was little Bobby's first day starting to school. He started bravely out the gate, then came back to his weeping mother, put his arms around her, and said, "Don't cry, mom, maybe I'll be deferred and not even have to go."

The story was told to four-year-old Charles about a little boy who had exciting adventures. When the story was finished, Charles asked, "But where was the boy's mother?"

Butler: Sorry, but Madame says she is sorry she is not at home. Visitor: That's all right. Tell her I'm awfully glad I didn't call.

One of those high pressure salesmen was doing a house to house canvass by telephone.

"Hello," answered an obviously small boy. "Let me speak to your mother or father," the salesman requested brusquely!

"They're not home," said the small boy. "Is there anyone else there I can talk to?" inquired the salesman.

"My sister," came the reply. "Well put her on," said the salesman. There ensued a long silence, then the little boy's voice finally came back on the phone, "I can't lift her out of the playpen."

One sheep meeting another said, "Baaa." "Moo, Moo," replied the other sheep.

"What the heck's the matter with you," said the first sheep, "have you gone nuts?"

"Indeed not," haughtily replied the second sheep, "I'm majoring in foreign languages."

Her dress was rayon, her coat was orlon, her stockings were nylon . . . nobody was going to pull the wool over her eyes.

Only occasionally do teachers get a good look into the minds of pupils. Such an insight (sometimes blinding) came to a friend who had just finished telling her class that the Spaniards drove the Moors and Jews out of Spain in 1492.

Deeply impressed, one of her students inquired, "Teacher, was that the same 1492 when Columbus discovered America?"

A Scot and an Irishman were arguing as to the merits of their families. The Scot had the floor first: "I tell ye, laddie, I'm sprung from the best stock in the world—from the stock of kings of Scotland. I've got royal blood in my veins. An' what stock are you sprung from?"

"I come from the Caseys," said the Irishman simply. "They never sprung from nobody—they sprung at 'em!"

Preacher: And when I get through with my sermon I'll ask those of the congregation who want to contribute $5 toward the mortgage on the church to stand up. In the meantime you play appropriate music.

Organist: What do you mean, appropriate music? Preacher: You play "The Star Spangled Banner".

CLARKE SPEAKS

Republican executive committee in Transylvania, presided over the dinner meeting and introduced the guests. First he recognized the Republican candidates: Mrs. Kathleen Teague, house of representatives; John J. Brown, Ted McCrary and Ernest Smith, board of commissioners; Ralph Waldrop and E. Gene Ramsey, board of education; Ed P. McCoy, register of deeds; and Boyce Albert Bishop, tax collector. He also recognized Mrs. Thelma Fisher, member of the recent General Assembly; Mrs. Bob Matthews, retiring member of the board of education; Mrs. Homer Harris, who is in charge of the Republican headquarters here; John J. Brown, head of the Young Republican club and other officers; and various precinct chairmen and committee members.

In giving a resume of the work in his office during the past four weeks, Mr. Clarke said he began with a conference with President Eisenhower in Washington.

"The president looked great," he declared. The speaker, who served in Europe under General Ike, said he is looking as good now as he did then, and "I know first hand he is admired and respected by the peoples the world over. Ike is a symbol of peace and freedom," he commented.

The Hendersonville nominee for congress said that he was holding meetings in towns and cities throughout the district.

"Believe you me, we are pounding the pavement and telling the people that the Republicans stand for peace and prosperity," he continued.

Banquet Of FFA Federation Held On Wednes. Night

The Pisgah Federation of Future Farmers of America, composed of FFA groups in both Transylvania and Henderson counties, held their annual banquet Wednesday night, October 10th, in the Hendersonville high school cafeteria.

Over 300 FFA members were present for the banquet with 60 boys attending from Brevard and around 35 from the Rosman group.

Officers from the Brevard FFA conducted both the opening and the closing ceremonies at the banquet. Tommy Burgess, of Brevard, gave the welcome address, and Kenneth McCoy, of Rosman, spoke on the ritual and parliamentary contest.

The groups were accompanied by their advisors, Randal Lyday, of Brevard; B. E. Keisler, of Rosman; and other school officials.

LAST RITES HELD FOR DR. BILLUPS

Served As Pastor Of Brevard Methodist Church From 1939 — 1943.

Last rites for Dr. Edgar Parke Billups, 63, who served as pastor of the Brevard Methodist church from 1939 until 1943, were held at the Leaksville Methodist church on Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Billups, who had been in declining health for the past year, died last Saturday morning in the Tri-City hospital at Leaksville.

Prior to his retirement last September, he had been pastor of the Leaksville Methodist church for six years.

A native of St. Albans, W. Va., Dr. Billups began his ministry over 40 years ago. After having served as pastor of several churches he was made president of Rutherford College, serving in that capacity from 1926-32.

Active in all phases of community life he was a member of the Leaksville-Spray Lions Club and this year was honored by the Leaksville-Spray Exchange club as Tri-City Man of the Year for his outstanding contributions to the church and the community.

He is survived by one son, Edgar Billups Jr. of the home; and one sister, Miss Gypsy Billups of St. Albans. His wife, the former Mary Ruth Person of Carthage, died in March, 1955.

utive committee of the Transylvania County Democratic Party, including plans for a $5.00 dinner on October 22 with Lt. Governor Luther Barnhardt as principal speaker. It was reported that the Women's club was planning another barbecue on November 2. Local Young Democrats plan to participate in both programs.

The dinner meeting on October 22nd will be held in the Brevard college cafeteria, and "Pat" Patterson is in charge of ticket sales and arrangements. Tickets may be secured at the headquarters or from the precinct chairmen.

President Jones indicated that committee appointments would be announced by the next meeting.

Retiring president Gash reported that during the last year the local club had participated in planning and backing the state wide YDC rally held in Asheville under the sponsorship of the 12th Congressional District clubs.
