

THE TWO OCCUPANTS of this smashed car came out of the wreck without a scratch, believe it or not. They were Charles Tinsley, of Arden, and Max Tinsley, of Hendersonville, and they crashed head-on with a truck, driven by Chester Cochran, of Fitchburg, Mass., last Friday night on the Hooper curve near Rosman. Although the truck was badly damaged, the driver was not injured, and Patrolman Bill Sawyer, who investigated, said it was miraculous that no one was fatally injured in the accident.

'56 Deer And Bear Hunts Marred With Fatal Accident, Marshall Man Succumbs

Kill This Year For First Two Days Is 140. Compares With Less Than 100 In '55

Charles Berry Ballard, 34, of Marshall, died at 5:00 o'clock Wednesday morning in St. Joseph hospital in Asheville, as a result of a bullet wound in the Pink Beds section of the Pisgah National forest Tuesday afternoon.

The death is the first fatal shooting accident in the western management areas in the past 14 years, and it mars the otherwise successful '56 deer and bear season, which opened Monday.

Sheriff "Scott" Dillingham reported late Tuesday night that Harris Bridgeman, of Tryon, who found Ballard, told him that he thought he had shot a deer after firing three shots, but instead found Ballard with a bullet in his upper left thigh.

He was taken by ambulance to the hospital and suffered the loss of much blood. Upon arrival at the hospital, it was reported that he needed eight pints of blood.

Forestry officials and the county law enforcement department began an immediate investigation of the accident.

Hunts Successful

Forestry officials said that the kill during the first two days far exceeded earlier predictions.

Here in the Pisgah a total of 140 deer and three bears were killed on Monday and Tuesday, with some 1,500 participating in the hunts.

Last year the kill for the first two days was less than 100.

Charlie Gibbs, who operates the Pisgah Trading post at Pisgah Forest, was the first Transylvanian to bag a bruin on the '56 hunts in the Pisgah National forest.

Local persons killing deer in the forest on Monday were: Edwin Owen, of Rosman, Fulton Holiday, of Pisgah Forest; B. B. Meixwell, of Pisgah Forest; and E. H. Davis, of Rosman.

Local persons killing deer on Tuesday were Troy McCall and Bill Galloway, of Balsam Grove, and Fred Tinsley, of Brevard.
