Commerce Body Seeks To Extend Four-Lane Highway

Chamber of Commerce directors in meeting here Tuesday night started an effort to secure extension of the four-lane highway from end of the present contract at least to the junction of US 64 and 64-A in front of Deerfield Motel or possibly to the court house square on Broad street.

The road committee was asked to contract proper high commission officials and set forth the fact that a "bottle-neck" was in the making in front of Radio Station WPNF, where the new four-lane runs into Broad street. The old 64 highway from North Brevard, it was pointed out, in discussion of the matter, will also converge at that point and will add to the congestion.

The road committee, composed of Ralph H. Ramsey, John A. Ford, Lewis P. Hamlin and Freeman Hayes, was requested to take immediate steps in the matter.
