New Brevard High School Layout Is Approved By Board, Is Campus Type

SCHOOLS OPEN ON SCHEDULE MONDAY

Slight Increase In Enrollment Noted Here. Lunch-rooms In Operation

Transylvania's schools opened on schedule this week, and a full day of activities began on Wednesday. Students went to school half days on Monday and Tuesday, in order to give teachers and principals time to make class assignments, distribute records and books, etc. Cafeterias began operations on Wednesday, and due to the increase in the costs of food, lunches are now $1.25 per week. Enrollment figures are not available as yet, but an increase is expected.

Here at Brevard elementary, the largest school in the county, the enrollment Wednesday morning was 1,050, as compared with nearly 1,000 the first of the school term last year.

BRYANT IN CHARGE HATCHERY PROJECT

Construction Contracts Are Opened In Atlanta. Work Is Underway

Maurice Bryant, Jr., new superintendent of the fish hatchery under construction in Pisgah National Forest, has moved here to make his permanent quarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant and 15-year old daughter, Maureen, are living temporarily in the Sapphire Manor apartments. Their home and other buildings are now under construction at the fish hatchery site near Looking Glass Rock.

Bids for other construction were expected to be let last week by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, but no definite word has been received here.

Mr. Bryant first went with the Fish and Wildlife Service in 1940 as an apprentice fish culturist. He was stationed at various hatcheries in New Hampshire, Pennsylvania —Turn to Page Five

IS DESCRIBED AS FINEST IN STATE, MODERN DESIGN

The Advantages Are Cited By Architect. Can Be Enlarged Easily

BUILDINGS CONNECTED

Plans for a modern Brevard High School building were presented by the architectural firm, McDonald and Daniels, to the Transylvania board of education last Friday night.

These plans were enthusiastically approved by the board and will now be sent to Raleigh for final approval. Supt. Wayne Bradburn, who recently visited a number of new schools in North Carolina, reported to the board the plans were the finest he had seen and forecast that other counties building in the future would probably "beat a path" to Transylvania to see this modern campus layout.

This type of construction gives maximum ventilation and light, and the beauty of it is the ease in which future additions can be made.

Final approval of these plans, working drawings and specifications, is expected shortly after the first of the year when the board will advertise for bids. It is estimated that 12 to 18 months will be required for building.

The capacity of this new school building is 800 students, and it will contain 40 classrooms.

The large auditorium will have an adequate stage and ample room for properties. Dressing rooms are also included.

The gymnasium, to be located adjacent to the building, is also included. —Turn to Page Five

Labor Day Will Be Quietly Observed In Transylvania, Schools, Stores Close

Many Visitors Expected In Community. Legion Holding Dance Saturday

The Labor Day week end in Brevard and Transylvania county will be quietly observed, and present indications point to a record number of visitors in the area.

Most of the Brevard stores will be closed on Monday, as will the town and county offices. The bank will observe the holiday, and there will be no delivery of rural or city mail. Transylvania's schools will also close on Monday.

The general delivery window at the post office here, however, will be open from 11:30 until 12 noon.

Many picnickers and sightseers are expected in the Pisgah National forest, Ranger Ted Seely reports and he predicts that all of the recreational areas will be filled to capacity.

The American legion is sponsoring a big dance at the American Legion Memorial building Saturday night. This Labor Day week end will be open to the public and tickets will be on sale at the door for $1.50 per person or $3.00 per couple.

Wayne Rutledge and his orchestra, of Greenville, S. C., will furnish music for the occasion, which gets underway at 9:00 o'clock.

Brevard Jaycees Win Award At Meeting In Chapel Hill

Brevard Jaycees came home with the attendance prize of $50 awarded at the first Quarterly Board meeting held this past week end in Chapel Hill.

This meeting was the largest first quarterly board meeting ever held in the state, with some 750 Jaycees and wives attending from all of North Carolina.

The attendance prize is awarded on the basis of percentage of local membership in attendance and the number of miles traveled. With five registered delegates traveling some 285 miles to Chapel Hill, the local club walked off with top honors.

Brevard Jaycees attending the meeting were President Bobby Hoyle, John Ford, Jr., Earl Powell, Bill Griffin and Bill Norris.

The state organization adopted traffic safety as the number one project for the coming year. The local organization has been active in this program for several years, and is expected to double its efforts along this line due to the action taken by the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Monday night, members of the local club attended the chartering of a new club at Spruce Pine, which now brings the total number of Jaycee Clubs in the state to 125. State vice president, Bill Norris, of Brevard, installed the clubs new officers.

Times Inviting Visitors To Return For Colorama Season

DR. JAMES M. WALKER, M. D., who comes to Brevard from the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine where he has been on the practicing staff, will open an office here on Jordan street on Sept. 16th. (See story, page four).

Western North Carolina Newspapers Are Promoting Annual Event

The Transylvania Times, in cooperation with other newspapers in Western North Carolina, is publicizing the October color season in an effort to extend the tourist season beyond Labor Day.

Publishers and editors of the newspapers in the 19-county area have held two meetings to work out details of the project.

Primarily, the newspapers will carry stories, editorials and advertisements publicizing the outstanding beauty of the color season in these mountains during September and October.

Newspapermen are cooperating with chambers of commerce and other organizations, and next year a more elaborate fall colorama festival will be staged in the area.

The newspapers are giving their services and donating space in the entire promotion as a civic enterprise.

TOWN GETS $14,471 FROM POWELL BILL

Money Will Be Used To Improve And Maintain Streets Not Under State

The town of Brevard will receive $14,471.44 from the Powell bill fund at Raleigh, it is announced today.

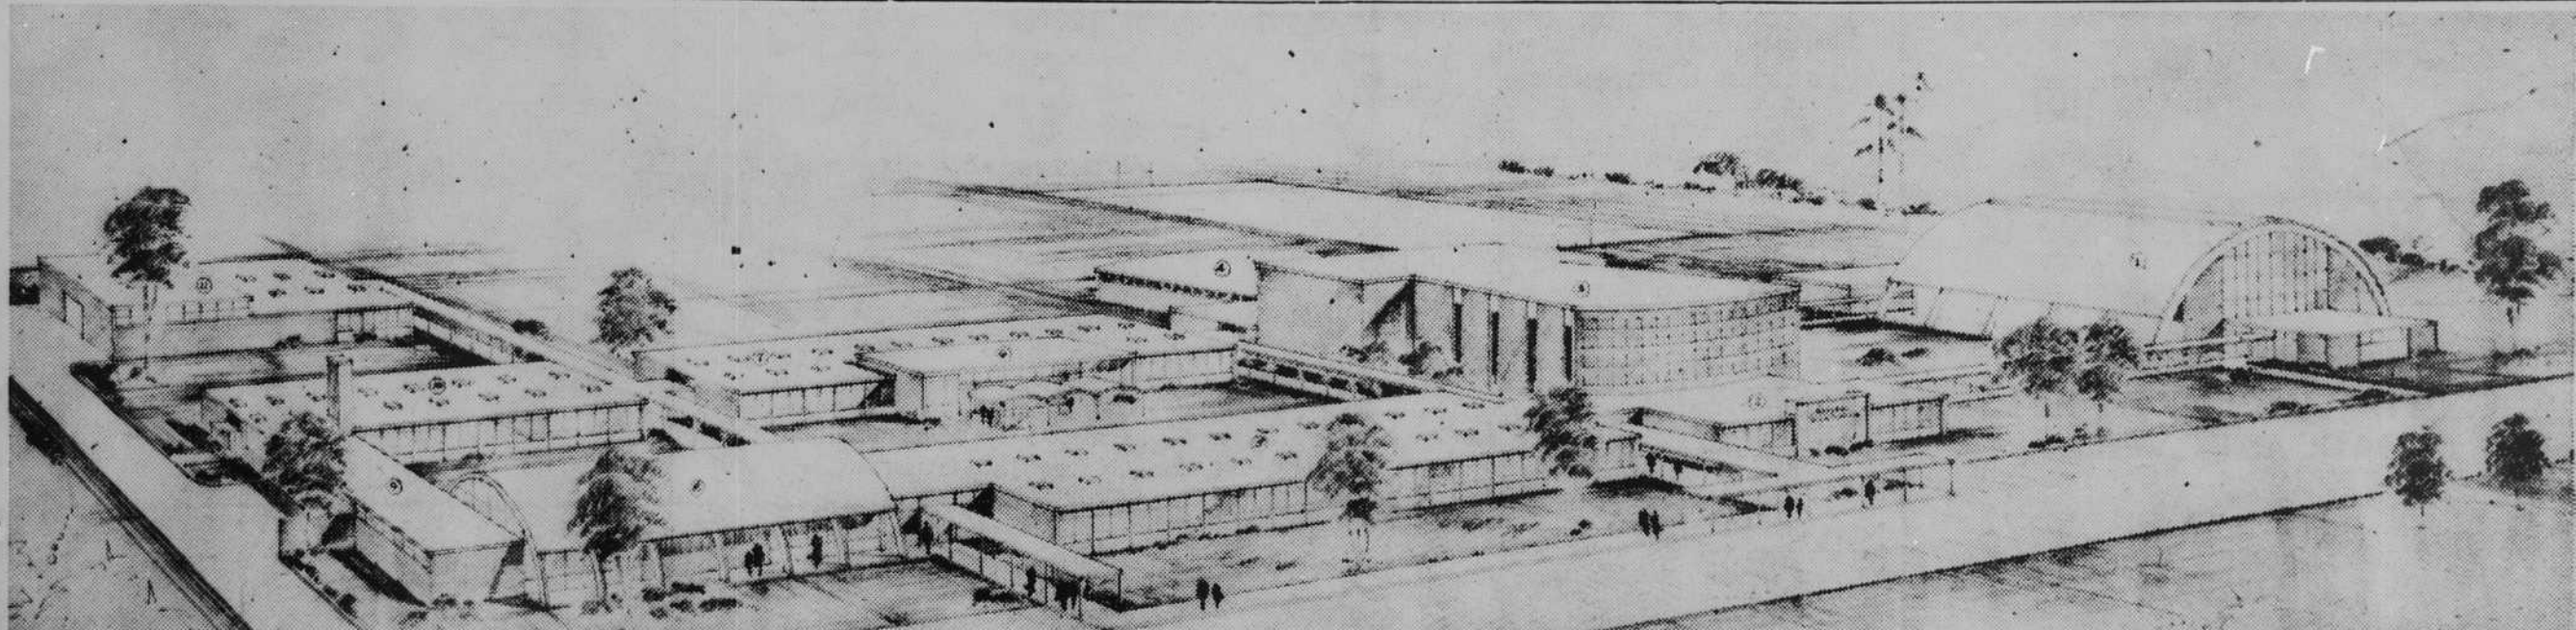

This money will be used to maintain and improve streets which are not part of the highway system.

Brevard is one of 400 towns in North Carolina receiving a special grant under the Powell bill.

The Powell bill fund represents one-half cents of the six-cent per gallon tax on gasoline.

Distribution of the money is based on the population of the towns and cities and relative mileage of non-highway system or local streets.

Last year Brevard received $14,192.59 from the Powell bill.
