REFUNDING PLAN WORKED OUT BY COUNTY, STATE

Sale Is Set For Mid-April. Outlook Said Good At Present Time

NO TAX INCREASE

Transylvania's county commissioners are preparing to sell $647,000 in bonds to finance the building of the new and modern high school for Brevard.

According to Freeman Hayes, chairman of the board, the outlook at the present time for the sale of the bonds is good.

The board of education has already advertised for bids on building the campus-type high school, and they will be opened on April 7th.

The sale of the bonds is slated either on April 15 or April 22 by the local government commissioner in Raleigh. They will be sold to the bidder buying them at the lowest net interest cost to the county. They must be sold at par plus accrued interest.

The commissioners, County Accountant Lewis Osborne and County Attorney Ralph Ramsey met here in the court house Monday afternoon with W. Ewart Easterling, assistant director of the Local Government commission of North Carolina, and discussed the prospects for selling of the bonds.

Previously Mr. Easterling and Mr. Ramsey worked out a schedule of refunding the bonds, but this was revised on Monday in order that they might be sold easier and at a lower interest rate.

Mr. Easterling explained that recent bond sales indicated that buyers are now interested in early maturing bonds. If the county, he said, could revise its schedule to provide for larger maturities during Parents are urged to have the boys return the survey blanks on Friday morning. They are also asked if they live on rural routes to put the name of the road instead of just the route number so they can be located.

Commission Makes Allocations For Transylvania In Raleigh On Tuesday

Highway officials reported to the Times Wednesday morning that repair work to the badly damaged highways in this county is proceeding as rapidly as possible.

Patch crews are working daily on US Highway 64 from Brevard to Hendersonville, they stated.

Stone and gravel are being hauled to upper Transylvania, and all school bus routes are open.

It is also announced today that Highway 64 from the entrance of Pisgah National forest to Horse Shoe will be resurfaced in early summer. The four-laner from the forest entrance to Brevard will also be blacktopped when weather permits.

During the year 1957-58, Transylvania will receive a total of $43,400.00 for work on secondary roads, it was announced out of Raleigh Tuesday.

Of this amount, $12,574.40 will come from the special two million dollar allocation, and the general allocation is $30,825.60.
