THE CORN GROWS TALL — The Times Staff Photographer read in the Waynesville Mountaineer last week that B. H. Holland had 13-foot-tall corn at Hazelwood and it was believed to be the tallest corn in Haywood county. He then went to two local gardens instead of into the beautiful corn fields out in Transylvania and found corn soaring to heights of nearly 14 feet. At the left is Walter Rogers, owner of a taxicab concern, whose fine garden is located on Jordan street. At the right is Dr. C. J. Goodwin, well-known local dentist, who gardens as a hobby off the Country club road. (Times Staff Photos)

BLOODMOBILE AT COLLEGE THURSDAY

Wilson Makes Plea For Public To Give. Need Is Said To Be Great

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at Brevard college on Thursday of this week. Don Y. Wilson, Jr., who is in charge of the recruitment program in Transylvania, announces today.

The bloodmobile will be in the college gym. Hours will be from 10 until 12 in the morning, and from 2:00 'til 6:00 p. m., Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Wilson cordially invites the public to give a pint of blood.

"The need right here in Western North Carolina is great, and we will appreciate a good response," Mr. Wilson stated.

MILLARD TEAGUE GIVEN PROMOTION

Brevard Man To Manage Sales Activities Of Ecusta Fine Paper

Millard C. Teague has been named manager for fine paper sales, Ecusta paper division, Olin Mathieson Chemical corporation, it was announced by W. E. Zimmermann, Ecusta director of sales and marketing.

In this new responsibility Mr. Teague will devote special attention to the sales activities growing out of projects involving the cooperative work of the Sales and Research Departments. Increased emphasis on the coordinated development and sale of new and improved fine papers, such as lightweight printing papers, is an essential part of the expanding Ecusta program for achieving full utilization of its new fine paper production capacity.

In addition he will have direct sales responsibilities with many of the company's present large customers and will be developing new customers.

DAVID M. HALL, of Sylva, who was recently nominated by the 20-member executive committee of the 12th congressional district as the Democratic candidate to congress to succeed George Shuford, visited in Transylvania last Friday afternoon. The cute "Indian Maid" welcoming him to town is Gina Brown, summer visitor here from Venice, Florida. Among the county officials chatting with him during the afternoon, from left to right, were: Sheriff "Scott" Dillingham, Representative James C. Gaither and Clerk of Court Marvin McCall. PRINCIPALS HAVE ASSUMED DUTIES, TEACHER NEEDED

Definite Increase In Enrollment Anticipated, Survey Is Made

LIST IS ANNOUNCED

Transylvania's school officials are now busy preparing for the opening of schools on Sept. 2nd, and the various principals returned to their work on Monday, Supt. Wayne Bradburn announces.

A meeting of the principals and teachers is set for Sept. 1st, and a half-day session of schools is slated on Sept. 2nd. Full-scale operations will begin on the following day.

Supt. Bradburn reported yesterday that there is one teacher vacancy in the school system, that being the fifth grade at Brevard elementary.

In all, the county is assigned 120 teachers, plus two district principals, seven individual school principals, four vocational instructors, two music teachers and a supervisor.

Robert T. Kimzey is principal of district one, and E. F. Tilson is district two principal.

A definite increase in enrollment is foreseen in the school system, especially here at Brevard high school.

According to Principal Kimzey, the increase will probably be more than 120 students, which emphasizes the need for pushing of construction of the new Brevard high school on the Country club road.

The teacher list, schools, is as follows:

Brevard High School
Mrs. George Wilson, Mrs. Eula Clarke, Benjamin Fishburn, Mrs. Rose N. Burrell, Glenn W. Galloway, Randal J. Lyday, Donald McLeod, Mrs. Sara K. Tilson, Mrs. Marion B. Verner, Mrs. Carol M. Wells, Mrs. Lucille V. Trantham, Wm. Marshall Teague, Mrs. Alma L. Galloway, Mrs. Ruth H. Andrews, Mrs. Lucille E. Sledge, Mrs. Margaret M. HUMANE SOCIETY CONDUCTS DRIVE

"Buy-A-Block" Campaign Will Be Staged On Friday And Saturday

The Transylvania County Humane Society, Inc., is having its annual "Buy-A-Block" drive this Friday and Saturday to raise funds for the animal shelter to be built on Ross road.

At the downtown booth there will be a poster showing the exact location of the proposed building and a member of the Humane society will be on hand both days to answer all questions from anyone interested in knowing more about this civic project.

According to officials this organization has carried on an effective work program in spite of its limitations and handicaps, and has made steady progress toward achieving its aims during the two and one-half years since it was incorporated in February 1956.

An important phase of the work is the picking up and placement of unwanted and stray dogs and cats and the caring for injured and lost. —Turn to Page Four

Mrs. McCrary Will Hold Story Hour

The Story hour at the Transylvania county library was held on the lawn of the library Thursday morning, with the regular attendance of local and visiting children here for the summer.

Mrs. James F. Nichols was in charge of the program which consisted of stories and readings from children's books by famous authors.

Mrs. Mary Jane McCrary will tell the stories next Thursday, August 21, at 9:30. Her subject will be "Indians". —Turn to Page Five

Transylvania's Part In The New Civil Defense Program Outlined

Chief Planner Says Law Requires Adopting Of Format. Groups Named

Transylvania's part in the North Carolina Operational Survival plan project of Civil Defense was explained to municipal and county officials and civic leaders Tuesday morning here at the city hall by V. D. Watley, of Raleigh, who is the chief planner.

Presiding over the meeting was Weldon Misenheimer, Transylvania Civil Defense commander, and attending in addition to the aldermen and the commissioners were representatives of the fire department, the police department, health office and the press and radio.

Mr. Watley outlined a Prototype Reception and Care plan, and explained that Transylvania, in accordance with the state law, is to prepare a similar one.

"The plan conforms with state and federal ones and during emergencies, it outlines operations to be followed," Mr. Watley declared. There are seven "target" areas in North Carolina, and it will be Transylvania's job to lend assistance to one of them, Asheville, in case of an enemy attack.

Specifically, this county must —Turn to Page Five

Several Accidents Reported, Damages High, Injuries Slight

A series of wrecks in Transylvania county during the past week is reported today by State Highway Patrolman Bill Sawyer.

A '51 Ford ran off the road at Calvert on Highway 64 Tuesday afternoon. After leaving the highway, it jumped a culvert and traveled some 300 feet before hitting a tree. The driver ran from the scene and has not been identified. The car, according to Patrolman Sawyer, has been taken taken into custody and is stored at Hogged garage at Rosman.

Tuesday afternoon three youths ran the car in which they were riding head-on into another vehicle in which a Florida couple was riding just across the line in Jackson county.

Both cars were damaged, and the youths fled from the scene of the accident. Patrolman Horace Morrow, who was formerly stationed here, is investigating.

One person was slightly injured when two vehicles collided at the intersection of highways N. C. 276 and N. C. 280 near Brevard Sunday.

Injured was Mrs. Rachael Abernathy, 21, wife of one of the drivers, Don E. Abernathy, 33, of Stanley. The other vehicle was operated by R. K. Whitaker, 67, of —Turn to Page Five

Parkway Stretch Being Blacktopped In Pisgah

New black-top paving on the 11-mile stretch of the Blue Ridge Parkway in Transylvania is nearly completed, a checkup this week, shows.

First coat topping has been completed and the finish coat is approximately three-fourths done. Paving started at the Beech Gap end.

The Parkway is only open on Sundays and legal holidays, but it is expected that it will be opened up continuously sometime next month.

New parking areas are being paved and stone "rims" placed around the vista stops.

At far end of the stretch, H. R. Stewart has already started on new contract from Beech Gap eight miles west, and Dillard the week totaled 1.20 inches. Daily work on the overpass bridge.

The Weather

There were no major changes in last week's weather, with mostly continued hot days and comfortably cool nights. Precipitation for the week totaled 1.20 inch. Daily readings are as follows.
