Asheville Concern Awarded Contract To Build New Army Reserve Center

Construction To Be Started In 30 Days. Completion Date In Nine Months

Construction of the 100-man Army Reserve Training Center here at Brevard is scheduled to begin within the next 30 days, according to a report by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers District office at Wilmington.

Col. H. C. Rowland Jr., district engineer, said a contract was awarded this week to the Merchant Construction Co., of Asheville to build the center. The contract is for $78,070.

It is estimated that the project will be completed in about nine months.

The training center will be erected on a site bordering on French Broad and Johnson streets opposite Brevard college.

It contains some 4.61 acres and is said to be ideal for an army reserve location. It was formerly the Towers property.

Purchase price of the property was reported to be around $15,000, and it is understood that some $65,000 has been allocated for the building of the center.

New Boy Scout Explorer Post Now Organized

The first Explorer post in the Transylvania district of the Daniel Boone council of Boy Scouts of America under the new Explorer program is Post 701, sponsored by the Brevard Kiwanis club.

Robert Phillips, who recently moved to Brevard from Columbus, Georgia, where he was active in Scouting, is the advisor, and William Leonard, who was formerly connected with an Explorer post in Brevard, is the associate.

According to Don Blankenship, district chairman, several other organizations and communities in the district have expressed a desire to organize an Explorer post.

"We hope to have these operating in the near future," he declared.

Prefer Excitement Of Batista's Overthrow To Quiet Life In America

By STAFF WRITER

The people of Cuba are rejoicing about the overthrow of the Batista government and the success of the popular rebel leader, Fidel Castro. "Viva Fidel" is the cry of the people.

These observations are from two Brevard college students who have just returned from their Christmas holidays spent at their homes in Cuba. Jose R. Bolanos of Las Villas, Matanzas, a sophomore and Felix R. Castillo, of Marianao, Habana, were delayed in returning to their school work by the conclusion of the revolution.

Both students expressed regret at having to leave Cuba and return to school. The delay was caused by a general strike of all transportation facilities leaving Cuba. This strike was ordered by Castro to prevent Batista forces from escaping. As soon as the transportation situation could be controlled by Castro, students and residents of the U. S. could leave without any difficulty.

"The people are very happy and there is much celebrating in the streets," explained Bolanos. He told how Castro's revolution had grown from a small force of 12 men into a national revolution.

"Fidel spoke to the people of Matanzas for two hours, and told them to each take a stone. In order to get the necessary arms, these people used their combined forces with rocks and stones to attack army installations and force them to lay down their arms," he continued.

Both students expressed belief that the Castro government will be the most liberal in Cuba's history. They denied emphatically that the rebel group was in any way communist controlled.

"Batista tried to make everyone believe that the communists furnished arms to Castro's men, but this is not true," they said.

Young Bolanos entered Brevard college the second semester of last year. At that time he spoke little English and had difficulty making himself understood. He finished

CONTRACTOR ON PROJECT, PLANS NOW COMPLETED

Additional 200-Line Switchboard Being Shipped. Other Materials Arriving

SOME NUMBERS CHANGE

The Citizens Telephone company announces today that work will be started immediately on the "construction" phase of its expansion program, which overall, calls for expenditures totalling $638,000.00.

According to Charles W. Pickelsimer, Jr., the general manager, Young and Crawford, of Raleigh, the contractor, is already on the project, and supplies are being received daily. The concern has procured a building on Broad street adjacent to Brevard Auto parts, and space has been arranged for the storage of 10 carloads of telephone poles, which are now in shipment.

"Telephone engineers have been working on our plans for months," said Mr. Pickelsimer, "and we are very pleased that upon completion of this expansion we will be able to provide the citizens of this county with more and better service than we have been able to in the past as our existing lines and switchboards have been filled to capacity for some time."

A 200-line addition to the present switchboard is expected to be shipped from Galion, Ohio around January 16th. Installation of this new equipment will begin immediately these people used their combined.

be completed during May. "In the meantime we expect to complete construction of the outside cables and wire so that with the installation of the switchboard we will be ready to add new subscribers and to change present subscribers from one class of service to another, as many have requested," said Mr. Pickelsimer.

The overall expansion plan will require very few changes in present private line telephone numbers, but in order to regroup and change parties from one class of service to another, approximately 500 present numbers will have to be changed. A new directory will be published in July to show these changes.

ADAMS TO SPEAK ON COURT REFORM

Asheville Attorney Will Be Heard At Meeting Of Lions Club Thursday

Joel Adams, Asheville attorney, will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Brevard Lions club Thursday night at the Colonial Inn.

Mr. Adams will discuss the Bell committee's proposals on improving the courts of North Carolina. He is a member of this body, which has the encouragement and assistance of Governor Luther Hodges.

A graduate of the law school of the University of North Carolina, Mr. Adams is a past president of the North Carolina Bar association and is recognized as a fluent speaker.

Clark Grisson is program chairman, and President Bob Andrews urges all Lions to attend the meeting, which begins at 7:00 o'clock.
