SOCIETY DEADLINE NOON TUESDAY

DIAL 2-4111

Mrs. Jerome Heads Mathatasian Club

Mrs. Jerry Jerome was elected president of the Mathatasian club for the coming year at the meeting in the home of Mrs. Walter Duckworth on February 11.

Other officers are: Mrs. C. J. Goodwin, vice president; Mrs. Tom Ramsay, recording secretary; Mrs. John Truesdail, treasurer.

The program "Between two Worlds" was given by Mrs. Jerome. She very interestingly reviewed the book "Return to Laughter" by Elinor Smith Bowen, which is the experiences of the author who joined a tribe in Africa for twenty six months. She gives a vivid picture of life in a primitive community and how they overcame the forces of terror, death and hate and yet were able to laugh.

"Lomaland" by Esther Warner, was also discussed by Mrs. Jerome. This was a portrayal of life and customs in Liberia, West Africa.

Mrs. Willis Brittain presided over routine business after which the hostess served a dessert course.

BY CHARLIE BRIGGS

Sometimes, my friends, I run plumb smack out of backtalk. And you can take it from my husband, that is very unusual for me. Every week I sit down at the typewriter and write a letter to you and talk about most anything that comes into my head. But sometimes I just sit and feel silent. Then I figure I either am homesick, have spring fever, or am just plain sick. Usually somebody will call and say backtalk made them glad or sad or mad or something, and I am off again, brimming over with conversation. I guess I like to get a little backtalk in return. Why don't some of you write me a letter and start an argument or something? Although it would probably scare me to death if you did.

I remember last year I said something about the revival preaching and gospel singing on the radio and some ladies got angry and some got complimentary, and it frightened me so that I didn't write another column for six months. I don't suppose I would ever make a good controversial columnist. Column writing is a very peculiar business. You can go along writing about flowers and memories, and nobody says too much. Then you write something you think will bring out a lynching mob, and everybody says "Good for you," and "That's what I've always thought, myself," and then you write something in all innocence, and BOOM! the roof falls in. That's what is so scary and so interesting about column writing.

There is a very good columnist on the Louisville Courier-Journal, Allan Trout by name, who started a landslide of mail one time by starting a club for anyone who owned a genuine Barlow knife. He called it the Barlow Bearcats, and I daresay it is now the biggest club in Kentucky. Then he offered some shoepegs (to wind Seth Thomas clocks) to readers who wrote in, and was swamped again. Who would have ever dreamed that shoepegs and Barlow knives would still be in demand?

Well, I can't find a shoepeg on the place. All I can turn up are some unidentifiable flower seeds from last year's garden. So if you write me a letter, I'll send you a genuine seed, unconditionally guaranteed to be — well, a seed.

Revivalists Now On TV And Radio

Brevard is again being represented in the TV world, this time by the "Revivalists," whose recognition has been built up by gospel singing.

On the Farmer Gray and Neighbors program Channel 7, from WSPA-TV between 12:30 and 1:45 Saturday they were one of five groups.

The group, organized by Lester Jones, who is a foreman at the Transylvania Tanning company, and who sings tenor, also comprises his elder daughter, Brenda Jones, alto, the second daughter, Martha Jones, soprano and Leonard Poteat, bass. The accompanist was Zelda Brooks. All are members of the Glady Branch Baptist church.

The "Revivalists," which became popular a couple years ago, as a capella group singing at Western North Carolina gospel sings, has been in great demand throughout this area ever since. Each Sunday morning they appear at 9 o'clock on Rev. N. H. Chapman's "Broadcasting For Jesus" over WPNF, for which service, the Rev. F. A. Raines, who conducts WPNF's "The Gospel Hour" at 8:30 each Sunday morning, accompanies them.
