is visiting here. She is holding two of the 14 different varieties that are grown locally. At the Ft. Myers farm, some 72 varieties are produced on the 22-acre "Pom-Pom" farm. Plans call for expanding the local operation next year. (Times Staff Photo)

New Rewinder Machine Installed In Ecusta Division Of Olin Mathieson

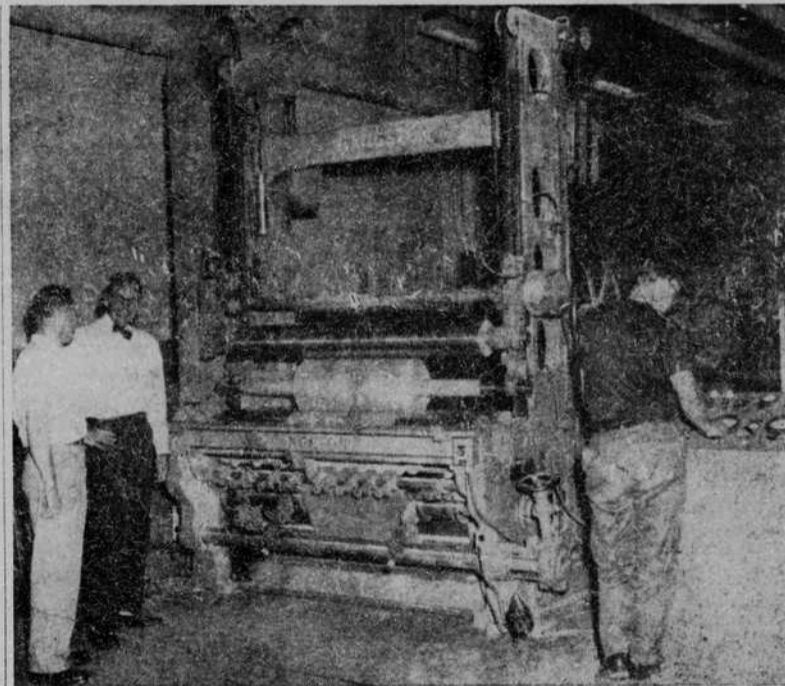

CALLAHAN BEGINS COLUMN IN TIMES

"So This Is New York" Will Be Carried Each Week. Writer Is Famous

North Callahan, writer of the column, So This Is New York, which starts this week in The Transylvania Times, was born near a small East Tennessee town and has the out-of-towner's viewpoint about the big city. His father owned a country store and the stories heard around the big stove and cracker barrel are somewhat like those he tells in his homespun, down-to-earth column.

The column has been compared to that of the late O. O. McIntire, being of a human-interest, not Broadway flavor. The main difference in New York and other place is that there is just more of the big town, he says, it really being a lot of small towns thrown together.

Many exciting and funny stories happen in New York which are new. —Turn to Page Four

NEW REWINDER — Holland Corn, at the control panel, demonstrates operation of the Ecusta Finishing department's new rewinder to Arthur J. Loeb, vice president of Ecusta Paper division, as Earl Hall, assistant manager of the quality control department, looks on. Extremely fast, and equipped with many automatic features, the machine offers greater versatility in rewinding narrow width rolls.

SPECIAL FEATURES

A new rewinder was installed recently in the Inspection Department of Ecusta Paper Division of the Olin Mathieson Chemical corporation at Pisgah Forest.

The rewinder represents a capital investment of more than $40,000 and in order of chronology is the 20th rewinder to be put in use by the division, some of the earlier models having been discarded. Except for the rewinder on the new No. 10 paper machine, this machine is by far the most automatic and fastest operating unit in the —Turn to Page Five

Health Officer Advises Citizens To Get Polio Shots, Survey Made

Dr. John Folger, health director for Transylvania county, makes a plea today for citizens to be inoculated against polio.

He says the North Carolina State Board of Health reports that as of July 18th, there have been 28 cases of paralytic polio within this state as compared with only 4 last year. Twenty of these had received no inoculations at all.

The sudden uprising of polio in North Carolina is evident in the fact that six cases were reported in one week prior to July 18th, Dr. Folger says.

The pattern throughout the country as a whole is similar, with more cases being reported this year than in the past three years.

As of July 29th, Transylvania was free of any cases of polio this year. Dr. Folger releases the following statement:

"With North Carolina's new health law requiring polio immunizations of all children entering school, there has been an increased interest locally in the vaccine program. Since June 1st, the local health department has administered 445 immunizations. Because of this large demand, and the relative short supply of state provided vaccine, the health director would like to bring to attention again the law, which provides free vaccine only to pre-school children, who are considered medically indigent; this provides for only the basic series of three shots. Other pre-school children, and those over 6 but less than 20 may obtain polio shots, including the now recommended 4th or booster shot, for the cost of $1.00.

"Those persons employing domestics, either full or part time, are reminded of the provisions of health law requiring that these employees be examined annually and provided with health cards. People with children in the home are especially reminded of the contagiousness of tuberculosis, and the susceptibility of small children to this disease.

"The health center's clinic is open Friday's 8:30 to 4:30, closed at noon for lunch."

Transylvania Baptist Association To Hold 78th Annual Session, 4th & 5th

The 78th annual session of the Transylvania Baptist association will be held August 4th and 5th with Mt. Moriah Calvert and Turkey Creek Baptist churches, respectively.

The Youth session will be held with Mt. Moriah Cherryfield on Tuesday night, August 4th, and the theme of the entire session will be "Teaching them to observe all things". Matt. 28:20.

The highlights of the first day will be the reports of the associational work, with Rev. J. D. Brog-don bringing the associational sermon.

Guest representatives from the Baptist Children's homes, Homes for the Aged, and Baptist Hospital, will speak concerning their reports. Among these guests will be: Claude F. Gaddy, W. K. McGee, and James Hayes.

Special music will be rendered by Mrs. Harold Killian.

In the Youth session Tuesday night, reports will be given concerning all the associational youth —Turn to Page Five

Public Invited To "Open House", Girl Scout Camp

Officials of the Pisgah Girl Scout council cordially invite the public to attend the "open house" at the Girl Scout camp in the Island Ford section of Transylvania on Sunday afternoon.

Hours of "open house" will be from 1:00 until 4:00 p. m., and there will be a brief dedication service at 3:15 o'clock.

Mrs. L. F. Nerlinger, the Transylvania district chairman, says the route to the Girl Scout camp, which is reached by going out the Country club road, will be marked with arrows, and members of the Brevard Rotary club at their last regular meeting in Gaither's Rhododendron room.

SFC Bowers was introduced by Charles Cook, who presided over the meeting in the absence of Pres-

Shriners To Take Page In Program For Annual Classic

D. Frank Bridges, president of the Transylvania Shrine club, announces the members of the local club voted unanimously at a recent meeting to sponsor an autograph page in the 23rd annual Shrine football game program in Charlotte on December 5th.

The president appointed Henry R. Henderson, ambassador for Transylvania county, to be in charge of getting autographs, and he now has the sheets for signatures.

The price for autographs is $1.00 or more, or whatever a person wants to donate to the Shriners hospital. There are over 10,000 of the colorful programs printed each year for the big classic.

Mr. Bridges points out that this —Turn to Page Five
