Town, Schools Make Big Savings On Purchase Of Surplus Equipment

The Town of Brevard and Transylvania county schools have saved thousands of dollars through the recent purchase of surplus equipment.

A bulldozer, truck tractor, street roller, and several dump trucks have been purchased.

The savings on these items was made possible through the cooperative efforts of Town Manager Tom Henry and the Board of Aldermen and Supt. Wayne Bradburn and the County School board.

The bulldozer, a $28,000 machine, was originally secured from Federal Surplus property by Mr. Henry for the Cherryville Health department. In July, 1959, a directive from the government stated that health departments were no longer eligible to receive this federal surplus property except for hospital or clinic use. When Mr. Henry came to Brevard as town manager in September, 1959, he transferred the bulldozer from the health department to Transylvania county schools, which are eligible to receive federal surplus equipment.

The other pieces of equipment were secured from the state highway department and Purchase and Contract division of the state, at a cost of $250 and $300 each.

Mr. Henry expressed thanks to state representatives and legislators for passing the bill which allows governmental agencies and units of the state to trade with each other on a negotiated basis. This bill was recommended by the N. C. Institute of Governmental Purchasing agents, of which Henry is a member.

An International TD 14 bulldozer was purchased from the highway department at a cost of $1,000, and
