

Riding Clinic Being Held At Rockbrook

A new feature has been added at Rockbrook Camp for Girls, one of the oldest and most famous organized summer camps in Transylvania. It is a week's riding clinic which is now in session.

Conducting the riding clinic are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Little, riding instructors during the regular camp session. During the winter months, Mr. and Mrs. Little operate the outstanding Horseshoe Acres Stables in Raleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carrier, Rockbrook owners, say that there's nothing like this riding clinic in the United States.

They are excited about it, and planning to hold one annually after each regular camping season. This year some 30 youthful riders, and some with their own horses, are attending the clinic.

Bradburn Urges Students To Attend Classes

All schools in Transylvania county opened Wednesday morning and an increase in enrollment was noted for the new school year.

During the half-day Wednesday, a teacher-pupil orientation program was carried out, and a full day of classes will be held on Thursday.

All cafeterias will be in operation on Thursday, and classes will begin promptly at 8:30 a. m. The principals in the various schools report that they expect the enrollment to increase during the coming week, as families return from vacations.

On the first day there were 3,998 students in Transylvania schools, and this compares with 3,985 for last year.

Supt Wayne Bradburn explains that it is most important that students attend school during the first 10 days since the schools lost two teachers, who were allotted on the basis of average attendance during the first six months during the previous year.

If there is an increase during the first 10-day period 1960, the county system will get the two teachers back.

The largest enrollment is at Brevard elementary, where 743 students are attending.

Next in line is Brevard junior high school with 615.

Enrollment at other schools is as follows:

Brevard senior high — 544
Rosman elementary — 508
Straus — 340

Two South Carolina Convicts Nabbed By Officers Here Tuesday Morning

Two South Carolina convicts were captured here in a Brevard rooming house shortly before noon on Tuesday by local officers and Sheriff Paul Hill and two of his deputies from Henderson county.

The men were identified as James Duncan, 18-year old white, male youth, and Charles Payne, age 20, also white.

They had made their get away from the Oneal Prison camp in Greenville county, South Carolina, Monday afternoon in a county dump truck while working with a road patching crew. Sheriff Hill began chasing the two men early Tuesday morning, when he received a call stating that they were at Duncan's home in Henderson county.

As officers approached the house, they fled into the woods and eluded their pursuers.

Later in the morning the sheriff received a call from a taxicab driver who stated that he was suspicious of two men that he had just let out of his cab at the first stoplight in Brevard.

Sheriff Hill immediately contacted Sheriff "Scott" Dillingham, Chief "Bill" Thurston and the State Highway Patrol here in Brevard.

In less than an hour, the convicts were nabbed at a local rooming house.

Duncan was serving time as a probation violator, and Payne was described as a short term prisoner. Guards from the Oneal camp came for them immediately after their capture here in Brevard.

Annual Whitewater Falls Picnic Highly Successful

By WALLACE BREWER

WHITEWATER — The 10th annual Whitewater Falls picnic was held at the North-South Carolina state line on Wednesday, August 17th, with many folks from both states in attendance. An increase of summer visitors of Transylvania were on hand for the event. We wish to extend our sincere thanks to everyone that helped to make the annual event a very successful one.

Prominent officials have pointed out that the completion of a paved road from highway 64 at Oakland to the paved section of the South Carolina Whitewater Falls road would shorten the distance to Atlanta by at least 50 miles from Asheville. Jack Potts, Brevard attorney, stated that Terry Sanford had committed himself to building paved scenic roads in Western North Carolina as the area is largely dependent upon the tourist industry, if elected governor in the general election.

The Oconee delegates reported that 300,000 tourists visit the Whitewater Falls from their county, and are spending $20 per person en route to the famed waterfalls. Mrs. Mary Jane McCrary brought greetings from the Transylvania Historical commission. She stated:

"That Transylvania county will observe its 100th anniversary in 1961 and each month during that year we will have certain commemorative celebration. We invite you, as our southern neighbors, to come over and assist us in this party. This location is
