Jaycees Make Awards

Brevard Jaycees have named Don E. McLeod, Brevard senior high school biology teacher and prominent youth leader in the community, as the "outstanding young man of the year" in Transylvania county during 1961.

Mr. McLeod was chosen from three finalists at the annual Distinguished Service Award banquet in Gaither's Rhododendron room last Wednesday night. It was a ladies' night affair and some 100 persons attended.

In addition to the winner, other finalists were John A. Ford, Jr., and Joseph W. McGuire, Jr. The presentation was made by John K. Smart, Jr., who served as master of ceremonies on the program.

In a special presentation, Mr. Smart gave a plaque to Jon E. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Anderson, citing him as the "teen ager" of the year in Brevard and Transylvania.

The outstanding young farmer award went to J. C. Woody, of the Little River community. This plaque was awarded by county agent, Jim Davis, on behalf of the Jaycees.

Stover Dunagan, editor of the Forest City Courier, was the principal speaker of the evening, and he was introduced by Bill Norris. Mr. Dunagan was described by Mr. Norris as "the most outstanding Jaycee I've ever known."

Mr. Dunagan spoke inspiringly on the vastness and importance of the National Junior Chamber.

To Work On Plan For Upper French Broad River Basin

A water-shed plan for the 231,147 acre upper French Broad River basin will be started immediately, 12th District Congressman Roy A. Taylor announced today.

Rep. Taylor said the U. S. Soil Conservation service through its North Carolina Conservation office, will launch a planning program expected to result in construction of headwater dams offering flood protection to the often hard-hit Transylvania-Henderson county areas.

Development of the plans, expected to require six to nine months, will be coordinated with three local organizations in the French Broad Watershed as follows:

Transylvania soil and water conservation district, Edward H. Mackey, of Penrose, chairman; Transylvania Watershed Improvement District, R. M. Boyd, of Brevard, chairman; and Henderson Soil and Water Conservation District, Claude A. Morrison, route two, Hendersonville, chairman.

Rep. Taylor said the Soil Conservation Service is now authorized to give technical and financial assistance through these organizations, to development of a watershed program.

Once plans are completed, Rep. Taylor said, the Soil Conservation Service in Washington, through a committee of Congress, will submit to the budget bureau a request for funds needed for the control program. Estimates of the cost

Next Week's Criminal Docket Is Cancelled, General Court Lauded

Local Musicians Recognized

Thirteen members of the Brevard high school band made an excellent showing in the "All-State" band clinic at Western Carolina college last weekend, and one of the group, Susan Farley, received the "outstanding high school musician award".

Frances Bryant was runner-up. Five Brevard musicians, Miss Farley and Miss Bryant, Carole Dillingham, Mike Hunter and Jon E. Anderson, played in first chair positions in the "All-State" band.

Marie Parker, oboe, was slated to have played first chair, but she was ill and did not make the trip.

The annual clinic is sponsored by the band division of the North Carolina Music Educators conference. Directors of the clinic this year were: Dr. Alan Bone, Duke university; John Sumrall, Mars Hill college; and Ron Hyatt, Western Carolina college.

Tommy Shuford Is Given Appointment To Annapolis

Thomas Donald Shuford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shuford, of Penrose, has received an appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The announcement was made by Representative Roy A. Taylor in the Congress at Washington, D. C. recently.

In congratulating young Shuford, Representative Taylor said he could make only one nomination this year and he was happy to nominate Shuford, who is currently a freshman at Auburn university, Auburn, Alabama.

Shuford was a member of the championship football team at Brevard last year, and he was recognized as one of the best linemen in the state. He was also active in other activities at the local senior high school, and he was class officer for four

Over $11,000 Paid In Since Last October

Due to the lack of business, the criminal term of Superior court, scheduled next week in Transylvania, has been cancelled by the chief justice.

Marvin McCall, clerk of Superior court in this county, explains that the new General County court has done a "marvelous job" of clearing the docket.

When the court began last October 2nd, there were 175 cases on the docket, and since that time the General county court has disposed of approximately 350 cases, Mr. McCall states.

On next week's docket there were nine cases involving some six persons and the court was cancelled.

"This saved the taxpayers a lot of money," Mr. McCall added.

Criminal court costs approximately $500 per day, and civil court is somewhat cheaper.

To give the public an idea of how much money the General County Court has taken in, Mr. McCall released the following figures Wednesday morning:

Total amount from fines and costs - $11,781.95
Paid to school fund - $7,249.39
Paid to general fund - $2,029.60
Paid to town of Brevard - $735.00
Paid to Justices of the Peace - $767.87

No Flu Epidemic Seen In Schools, Advice Is Given

Absenteeism in the Transylvania school system does not indicate that the flu epidemic has hit this county.

According to Supt. Wayne Eradburn, daily absences are running from six to 10 per cent, which is about normal for this time of year.

However, he fears that absenteeism is on the increase, and he advises parents to keep their children at home if they are running a temperature.

Dr. John Folger, Transylvania county health officer, says there are symptoms of the nationwide flu epidemic in Transylvania but they are a mild strain of the Asiatic flu epidemic.

The majority of the cases of flu in the county is of a mild nature, and persons are not violent.
