Natural Gas For Brevard?

Natural gas for industrial and residential consumers in Brevard is now in prospect.

By action of the Board of Aldermen at its meeting Monday night, city manager Bill Edens and city attorney Cecil J. Hill were authorized to begin negotiation with the Public Service Company of North Carolina for a franchise to permit that company to establish its service in Brevard. The company is located in Gastonia.

B. E. Zeigler, president of the company, appeared at the meeting and informed the Board that a petition for the franchise will shortly be presented here.

Mr. Zeigler said his company has completed arrangements for supplying gas to the DuPont plant in Buck Forest.

The company supplies gas for heating and cooking. It serves Asheville, Rutherfordton, and other towns in western North Carolina. Its nearest pipe line is in Fletcher. To serve Brevard and DuPont the line would be extended from Fletcher, by way of Penrose. Estimated cost of the installation of the pipe lines is one million dollars. The company would have an office here and there would be employment for several persons.

Housing and Zoning
The Board acted on proposals concerning housing, zoning, and city planning.

A change in the zoning ordinance was presented by Bill Leonard, chairman of the Planning board. The change would prohibit more than one house on a single lot, and would require that every house erected in the
