Brevard Music Center Is Expecting "Best Season"

After a highly successful season in 1961 which was climaxed with a concert on the lawn of the White House before President Kennedy, the Brevard Music Center is now looking forward to its best year this summer.

Many outstanding artists have been signed to appear on the summer concert programs. The season officially opens on Sunday, June 24th, and will continue through Sunday, August 26th.

More concerts than ever before are being scheduled this summer, and a complete listing is given on the front page of the third section.

Probably the most outstanding weekend of the summer will be the concerts for Governor Terry Sanford beginning July 20th.

The following weekend will be known as Federation Weekend, when members from music clubs across the nation will meet here.

Dr. James Christian Pfohl, founder-director, said here yesterday that the outlook for the Brevard Music Center this summer is the brightest since the founding 25 years ago. He also said that the return of many fine faculty and brilliant soloists from previous years with the addition of many outstanding new artists insures a program of the highest calibre throughout the summer.
