First Concerts Well Received, Round-Up Made

By BILL ADAMS

There's always music in the air at the Brevard Music Center, but during the opening of the annual Brevard Music Festival last weekend the mountains were filled with the sounds of some of the world's true musical artists.

On Friday evening, a large responsive crowd heard Joseph Fuchs, renowned concert violinist when he played the Walton Piston Violin Concerto with the Brevard Festival Orchestra, conducted by Dr. James Christian Pfohl.

The Saturday afternoon audience heard the well-known piano husband-and-wife team, Mildred and Gerald Snyder, when they played Poulenc's Two Piano Concerto. Emil Raab, dean of the faculty at the center, also conducted the Festival Orchestra in Beethoven's Cello Concerto and Copland's Symphony No. 9.

Lino Bartoli, James Caesar, and Emil Raab, all faculty members at the center, teamed up for the Saturday evening concert and played Vivaldi's Triple Violin Concerto. Then Joseph Lawton, one of Winner of the first Dimitri Mitropoulos International Music Competition in New York in 1961, Anievas will play Chopin's Piano Concerto No. 1, E Minor, Friday evening, at 8:15. The 90-piece Festival Orchestra, conducted by James Christian Pfohl, will play Vaughn Williams' Fantasia on a Theme by Thomas Tallis and Richard Strauss' Ein Heldenleben.

Saturday afternoon at 3:30 Munroe, principal cellist of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, will play Dimitri Kabalevsky's Cello Concerto. Dr. John Boda of Florida State University will conduct the Festival Orchestra in Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 and his own Sinfonia (1960).

Two artists will perform with the Sinfonietta Saturday evening, beginning at 8:15. Sally Wylly of Gastonia, N. C., one of four 1952 Brevard Music Center Young Artists Award winners, will sing Puccini's Un Bel di Vedremo, from "Madame Butterfly" and Verdi's Ah! Fors' e lui from "La Traviata." Emil Raab, concertmaster for the Festival Orchestra and professor at the University of Alabama, will play "Vaughan Williams' The Lark Ascending."

Dr. Pfohl will conduct the 26-piece Sinfonietta in M. Thomas Cousins' Overture, 1962, Schubert's Symphony No. 5 and Iber's Divertissement. It will mark the world premiere of the Cousins' overture.

Anievas and Munroe return Sunday afternoon, at 3:30. Anievas will play Prokofiev's Piano Concerto No. 2 and Munroe Saint-Saens' Cello Concerto No. 1. The Festival Orchestra, with Dr. Pfohl on the podium, will play Bach-Stokowski's Komm Süsser Tod, Luis Benjamín's Lorquena and Ravel's La Valse.

In the interest of better serving the community, Brevard automobile dealers are holding monthly dinner meetings, and according to the president, Freeman Hayes, the group is making real progress.

Hayes Heads Auto Dealers

"We have stimulating discussions, and all of us derive much benefit from each meeting," Mr. Hayes declared.

Sales, services and public relations are among the topics of discussion at the various sessions.

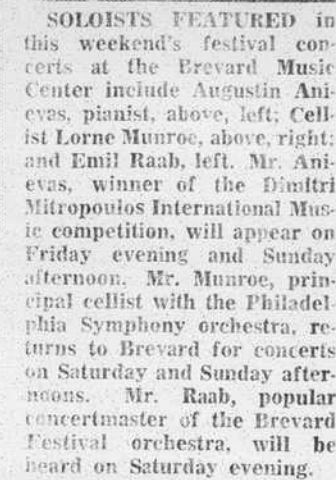

First Graders Offered Free Vision Tests

Children in Brevard who are to enter school for the first time this fall are being offered free vision readiness tests under a state-wide program conducted by the North Carolina Optometric Society, Inc.

Dr. Marshall E. Ginsburg, chairman of the committee on visual problems of children and youth for the society said that all members of the state society will cooperate in the state-wide program by contributing all office hours to the program Monday, August 20th, which has been designated as "pre-school vision screening day" for North Carolina.

Appointments for the vision readiness tests may be made at the offices of Dr. F. B. McGuire and Dr. E. O. Roland.

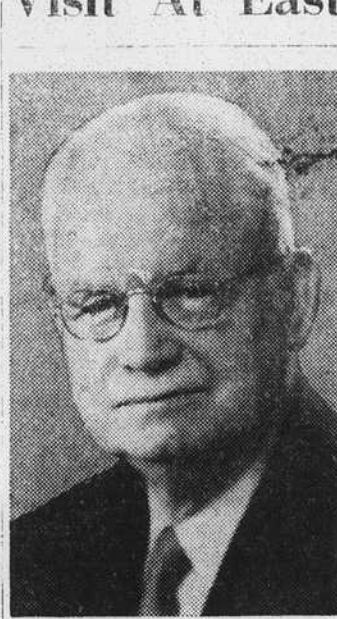

Dr. Ginsburg emphasized that the readiness tests provide only a "screening" to determine if the child is visually ready for school tasks, and will be sufficiently thorough to locate vision problems.
