One Wreck Mars New Year's Here

The New Year's observance was quiet in Brevard and Transylvania county, the sheriff's department and the local police report.

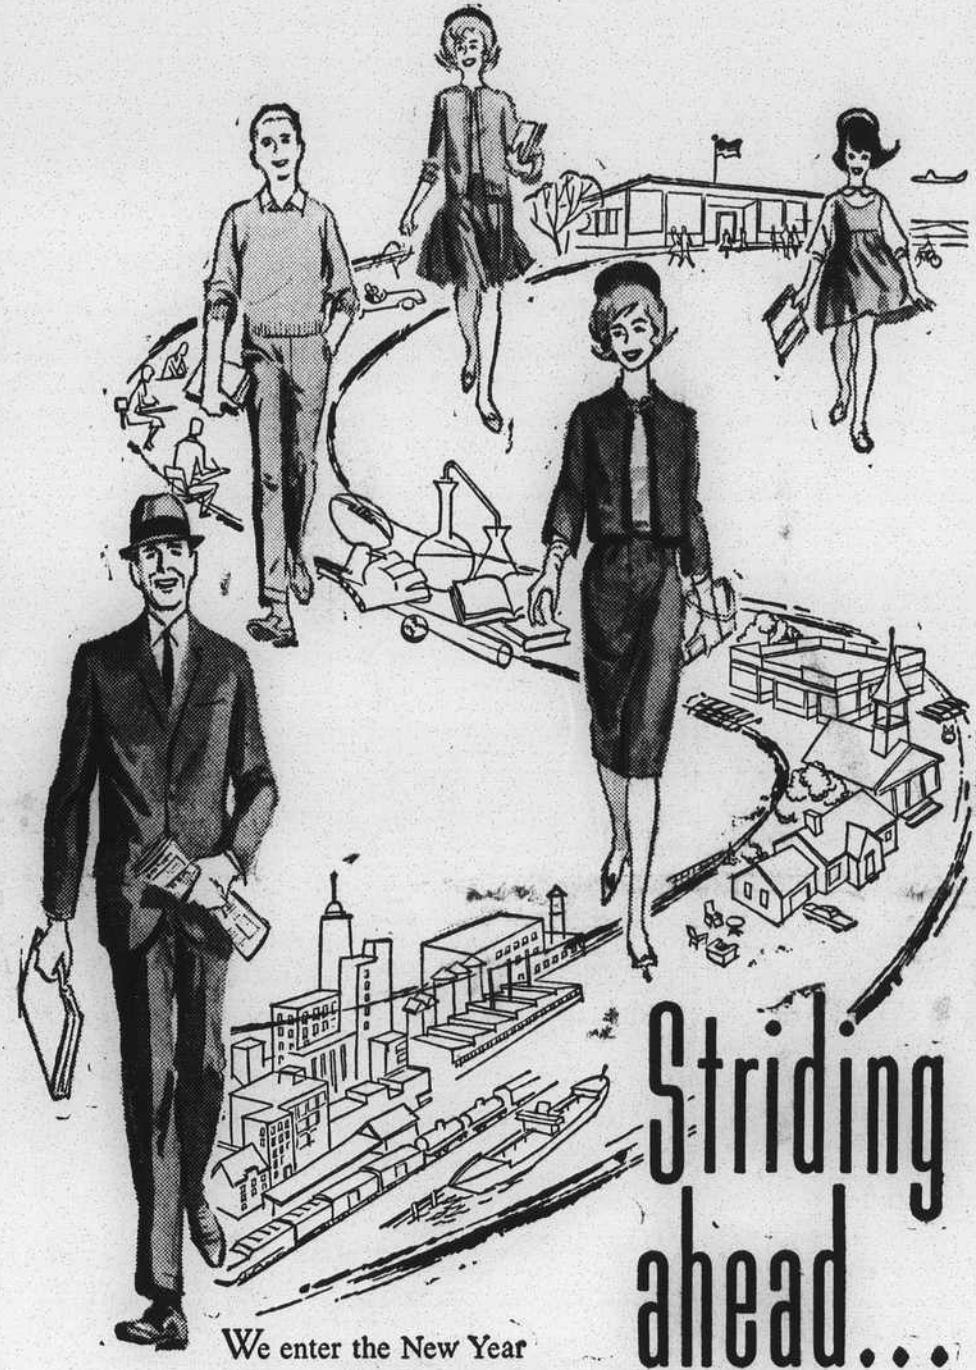

However, there was one serious accident in which two persons were injured, a couple of cars demolished and much damage was done to Line Runner Inn, where the wreck occurred.

According to Patrolman Gene Beshears, who investigated, the drivers of the cars were James Whitmire, 19, and Jimmy Boyce Galloway, also 19, both of Rosman.

Mr. Beshears says the two cars were traveling side by side at a high rate of speed and the drivers lost control of them in the curve at Line Runner Inn, above Rosman.

They crashed and then slammed into the cement fish pond in front of the inn and into the building. Damages were estimated at several thousand. Galloway suffered cuts and — Turn to Page Eight

The announcement that the Du Pont company would build a multi-million dollar photo products division at its local plant site was adjudged by the staff of The Transylvania Times as the county's No. 1 story during 1962.

As the New Year began a year ago, things looked dismal at the silicon plant. Production was being curtailed and employees were being laid off.

Then the announcement of the new addition brought a terrific impact to the community. It gave the citizens of the entire community new hope, new enthusiasm and an entirely different outlook.

Other expansion stories also ranked in the top 10 in Transylvania.

Olin Mathieson made vast progress on its super-structure to house paper machine, No. 11.

Continued progress was made on the erection of the satellite tracking station in upper Transylvania, and Brevard College completed one of the most modern physical education buildings. — Turn To Page Three
