

Prisoner Saws Way Out Of Jail Tuesday

A prisoner escaped from the Transylvania County jail early Tuesday morning.

The escapee, Cleon Mason, cut through the bars on the window of his cell with hacksaw blades at about 3:00 a.m., Sheriff Carter McCall stated.

Mason was in jail on charges of assault on an officer and resisting arrest. Sheriff McCall and Deputy Floyd Owen had gone to arrest him on charges of failure to pay court costs when Mason confronted them with a 16-gauge shotgun.

Sheriff McCall said that Mason told him the gun "is loaded with buckshot" and the hammer was cocked. Mason was finally subdued by the sheriff, deputy, State Patrolman Gene Beshears and 2 reserve policemen.

Investigation as to Mason's present whereabouts is proceeding, Sheriff McCall said.

Rescue Squad Again Swings Into Action

The Brevard Rescue squad made another dramatic rescue over the Labor Day weekend.

About 1:00 o'clock Monday afternoon, a call was received, saying that a man had fallen over Rayburn falls at Caesar's head.

He was Perry Boswell, of Stuart, Florida, and his age was reported to be around 50.

Using their 4-wheel drive vehicle and other rescue equipment, the squad reached Mr. Boswell in record time and quickly had him on his way by ambulance from Moore-Kilpatrick funeral home to a Greenville hospital.

He suffered a fractured hip, but last reports said he was recovering nicely.

Captain Jimmie Rowe, who heads the local rescue squad, reminds the public that the organization is on duty around the clock on weekends to handle emergencies.

Brevard Band Receives Gift From Johnson Foundation

Superintendent of Transylvania county schools, Wayne Bradburn, announces today that the Charles F. Johnson Foundation, of Palm Beach, Florida, has made a fine gift to the Brevard High school band for the purchase of two new and expensive instruments.

These instruments are: A much needed sousaphone, or BB flat bass; and a bassoon, an instrument the band has never owned but has needed for some time. Both instruments are on order and are expected to arrive here soon.

School officials were most appreciative and enthusiastic about this unexpected and most generous gift by Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson, president of the Charles F. Johnson Foundation, is well-known in Brevard and Western North Carolina for his genuine interest in young people — music — and education. Here in Brevard he is known for his generous support of the Brevard Music Center. He was a member of the Brevard Music Foundation Board of Trustees for several years and later served as board chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are residents of Palm Beach, but maintain a summer home in Biltmore Forest where they spend their summers.

In making this gift, Mr. Johnson stated:

"I have known John Eversman, director of the Brevard High school band, for many years. I am delighted and interested in the wonderful work in music education being done at Brevard High school with this fine band and am glad to be able to help in this fine work by making this gift."

At Senior High School

Klaudt Indian Family Will Lead Big Singing Tomorrow

The Klaudt Indian family, dressed in full color costumes, will be featured in a big singing Friday night of this week at the Brevard senior high school.

Advance tickets, at reduced rates, are on sale by Chief W. S. Thurston, of the Brevard police department.

Chief Thurston urges everyone to attend this "Once-in-a-Lifetime" program that is interesting every moment, thought provoking, dynamic, and soul inspiring. It is not just entertainment alone, but songs with a variety that are professionally sung with a rendition that is humbled by a real "Call of God"

Enrollment In Schools Up, Survey Shows 209 Increase

The enrollment figure for the Transylvania county schools now stands at 4,261, according to Superintendent Wayne Bradburn.

This is an increase of 209 students over the total at this time last year, and the schools are expected to pick up more students within the next week to 10 days. Mr. Bradburn predicts a total enrollment of 250 more students than last year.

Enrollment is up in all schools in the county except for Straus, which is down 3 to 353 students, and Rosenwald, which is down 11 to 207.

WPNF's Treasure Hunt Now Has A Jackpot Of $175.00

Interest is mounting in WPNF's final jackpot of the $175 in the current summer Treasure hunt program.

According to Al Martin, station manager, final clues were given yesterday over the air and all the merchants began displaying placards with one of the six words necessary to form the bonus sentence included in the final contest.

Entry blanks are still available from the various merchants sponsoring the contest.

The largest enrollment in any of Transylvania's schools is again at Brevard elementary, which has 840 students.

T. C. Henderson school in upper Transylvania has the smallest enrollment with 180.

Other schools in the system and their enrollment figures are:

- Brevard junior high—662
- Brevard senior high—660
- Penrose—280
- Pisgah Forest—281
- Rosman high—284
- Rosman elementary—517

The complete details are given daily on "Tune Time" and the Jackpot winner will be announced at 2:30 p.m. on Monday afternoon, September 9th.

Natural Gas Will Be Turned On This Friday

Ceremonies that will officially open the valves bringing natural gas to Brevard and Transylvania County will be held this Friday morning, September 6th.

Ash Carper, local manager of Public Service company of N. C., Inc., the company bringing natural gas to this area, stated that officials of the town of Brevard would be on hand to turn the valve allowing natural gas to start flowing exactly at 11:30 a.m. on Friday.

Mr. Carper extends a cordial invitation to everyone to attend the "valve turning" ceremonies, which will be held at the regulating station on U.S. 64, directly across from Camp Straus.

New Auditorium Is Proposed For Music Center, $60,000 Is Needed

Total Cost Set At $180,000, Drive Launched

The greatest need at the Brevard Music center today is a new auditorium, and according to Dr. James Christian Pfohl, the founder and director, a spacious one can be constructed for as little as $60,000 raised during September.

And Dr. Pfohl is using a three dollars - for - one proposition to raise that amount.

This is the deal:

The new auditorium—seats, parking, landscaping and all—will cost $180,000. One matching - fund offer of $75,000 has been made by an out-of-state foundation, with a deadline of October 1st.

Another offer of $20,000 on somewhat similar terms has been made by an anonymous group of businessmen.

A total of $25,000 has come in from several hundred individuals and music clubs in response to appeals at the mountain music center and to mail solicitation.

This leaves $60,000 to be raised by Oct. 1st in order to qualify for the two large donations, which total $95,000.

Pfohl discussed the challenge drive at the Brevard Music Center offices at 1314 East Fourth Street in Charlotte where he spends nine months of the year

Labor Day Quiet Here

The Labor Day weekend in Brevard and Transylvania was quietly observed with most stores, town and county offices being closed.

The schools were also closed. No serious accidents were reported in the town and county, although there was a record number of visitors in the Pisgah National forest.

Many Transylvanians attended the Apple Festival parade in Hendersonville Monday afternoon, and the fine Brevard high school band, dressed in blue Bermuda shorts and white shirts and blouses, made quite a hit with the thousands of persons attending.

The Weather

Temperatures ranged from Friday's high of 83 degrees to the previous Wednesday's 43-degree mark during the past week.

This Is About A Football Game. One That Brevard Won't Forget

By - Kays Gary

This is the story of a football game, but it is more than that, so mamas may want to read about it, too.

This is because it is about young men like their sons and it demonstrates what they are made of when the chips are down.

Specifically, it is about the Brevard High School football team coached by Wake Forest alumnus Cliff Brookshire and about co-captains Wayne Hunter and Lloyd Fisher and quarterback Danny Shook and all the rest.

BUT MORE SPECIFICALLY it is about a young halfback name Paul Scruggs, and you could say that Paul was the team's big question mark and therefore potentially controversial.

This is because Brevard takes its football seriously. Co-captain and tackle Lloyd Fisher, for instance, is a candidate for All-State. And here was Paul Scruggs picked to play halfback, and he just did not look like anybody who would fit into the Brevard backfield. Besides, this was his very first year on the team.

People, after all, are inclined to judge by appearances and fail to take into account the thing that matters most—how a fellow performs on and off the field. They can only see how he looks. If he is spindly legged or cross-eyed or looks too different they can assume he doesn't belong.

But Coach Brookshire and his team knew better.

On Saturday night Brevard opened its season against T. C. Roberson High of Buncombe County, and Paul Scruggs did not start at halfback. It was a tough ball game, tied 6-6 in the second quarter, when Coach Brookshire tapped Paul to go in.

There was a hush over the crowd, except for a scattering of hoots you can always expect from a few, and if Paul heard he didn't show it.

BREVARD CAME out of its huddle and quarterback Shook took the snap and pitched out to Paul, of all people, and co-captain Fisher blasted a hole at tackle, and Paul scooted through it and 50 yards to the tie-breaking touchdown.

That sort of broke the game open, and when it ended, with Brevard ahead, 39-13, the T. C. Roberson High players came in and shook hands all

Brevard College has begun a new term, and the campus is once again a busy place.

Activities began Wednesday with the opening of the student-faculty workshop, and a social hour was held at 6:00 p.m.

Dr. Emmett K. McLarty, president, was on hand to welcome new and old faculty and staff members and student leaders.

Dr. Mark Depp was the inspirational speaker at a dinner in the cafeteria.

Full day's activities are planned for Thursday and continuing through Saturday.

Dr. Joe Ezell, assistant executive secretary of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, will attend the workshop on Thursday to assist the faculty committees involved with the Southern Association's self-study program.

Freshmen will arrive at the campus Sunday and there will be a special service held for them that night at the Brevard Methodist church. President McLarty will preside.

The freshmen will begin orientation Monday and the sophomore

Annual Little Theatre Picnic This Sunday

Plans have been completed for the annual Brevard Little Theatre picnic to be held Sunday, September 8th, at Camp Straus, beginning at 4:00 p.m.

The picnic is one of the two annual membership gatherings of Brevard Little Theatre. The other is the dinner meeting and election of officers at the end of the season.

During the picnic meeting, Mrs. Jane Johnson, BLT president, will outline some plans
