Du Pont Progress Report

Since Photo Products moved into the plant in April 1962, employment has risen 70%. In the last year Du Pont has added 230 employees, making total em-ployment figures stand at 530. According to Ken Grogan, public relations officer, employment is expected to reach 575 by the end of this year.

Payroll has taken a big rise also. It is up 85% since Photo Products moved in. The payroll increase is due mainly to the addition of new employees, but the promotion of old employees to higher-paying jobs is also a big factor.

In the last two years 23 men have been promoted to positions as group supervisors. In some instances these promotions have been gradual but many times they come fast to qualified personnel.

One supervisor, Graham G. Grant, came to Du Pont in 1957 as a mechanic trainee. Since then he has held 8 different positions at the plant, working up to the supervisory position.

The fastest rise at Du Pont was made by John New of Brevard. He started in March 1963 as a utilityman in the finishing area. Since then, he has gone through 2 other positions and this year was made a supervisor.

There is no man that was held over from the silicon plant by Photo Products that hasn't received some up-grad-ing. All were taken over at their same pay rate and all have since been promoted at least once.

One man, Jimmy Smith, started with Du Pont as a janitor. He was promoted to laborer. then to service operator in the casting area, then to service operator in coating and is now a full operator.

All of these men have still further opportunities as do all employees at Du Pont. As long as Photo Products continues to

Five Counties In Area Meeting Requirements

Representatives from Transylvania county and four other Western North Carolina counties were urged to start planning at once to take advantage of grants under the Appalachian Regional Development bill now pending Congress.

The meeting was held in the Haywood County court house in Waynesville Monday.

Provisions of the $1 billion, 10-state measure were spelled out by George M. Stephens Jr., special assistant to Gov. Sanford for economic development, and North Carolina's member of the Appalachian Commission

The Appalachian bill has been approved by the House Public Works Committee and is now in the Rules Committee. It is exnext week. Stephens said the bill's chances for passage "look pretty good.

The bill is needed, Mr. Stephens said, because the Appalachian region has been largely bypassed by national presper-ity and is caught in a "descending spiral" of out-migration, shrinking tax bases and peop communications. The bill's on jectives are to "build an eco-nomic base on which private enterprise can bring jobs for

He said the bill, if adopted, will operate by increasing the government's grants federal through already existing programs, with the grants in most cases to be 80 per cent federal with 20 percent local financing.
