Local Board Hopes To Meet With TVA At An Early Date

In an effort to correct conflicting reports, The Transylvania County Commissioners announce today that they hope to have a meeting with TVA officials in the very near future.

Local board members were told by TVA at the Congressional meeting in Washington in mid-June that they would give further study to alternate plans of the Little River and Brevard dam sites.

TVA said at that time the study and investigation would take several months and it would probably be late fall before any decisions could be reached.

Donald Lee Moore, chairman, said this week that the meeting with TVA would be set up as soon as possible. He suspects it will be in November.

He said he has every reason to believe that TVA is making a thorough study of the alternate plans that were presented by the local delegation at the Washington meeting.

He said the public would be informed immediately when they meet again with the TVA officials.

Fine Progress Report Made On Glen Cannon Golf Course

It seems that all roads in Transylvania lead to the Glen Cannon Country Club these days, for traffic on the new road into the club can be best described as heavy.

Although construction on the course has been completed, a continuing program of watering, mowing and fertilizing will keep club employees and officials busy until next spring, when the course will be opened for play. Whether this will be early or late spring is not yet known.

W. B. Lewis, designer and builder of the new golf course, received final payment for his services on October 12th, less than six months after he was awarded the contract. In view of several periods of rather unfavorable weather conditions, the Glen Cannon Board of Directors was pleased at the speed in which the course was built.

The board voted at its October meeting to proceed with final plans for the swimming pool. This means that the Swimming Pool committee should be able to approve the final plans and get them out for bids by November 30th.

While the location of the club house has been decided upon, the actual design has not. At present, the board is pursuing the feasibility of renovating the large barn adjacent to the 10th tee. Whether —Turn to Page Six
