Brevard, Rosman Are Winners Of Yearbook Awards

Again, Brevard and Rosman high schools published prize-winning yearbooks during the past year.

Both schools were first place winners in their respective categories at the annual Editors Roundtable last weekend at WCC, Cullowhee.

Weimer Jones of Franklin, well-known journalist, delivered the keynote address.

Mr. Jones urged his young audience to pursue education for its value in producing the well-rounded individual. He described education as "learning to think with a purpose to the end that we can measure understand the physical universe, people who inhabit the earth and most of all ourselves."

The students attended two sessions in yearbook and newspaper production where critiques were conducted by judges Mrs. Ruth Nelson and Mrs. Brona Roy.

An Impressive Ceremony

Schenck Job Corps Center Dedicated, Taylor Speaks

The new Schenck Job Corps center in beautiful Pisgah National forest was formally dedicated in an impressive ceremony last Saturday afternoon.

Congressman Roy A. Taylor told the corpsmen of the center and those attending the event that the country needs such centers and the work the corpsmen are doing.

He urged their (the corpsmen) development to their fullest capabilities.

Representative Taylor, making the dedication address at the Center near the entrance to Pisgah National Forest, told the corpsmen that there is room and need for them in America.

"May you stand straight and grow taller," he told them, as he dedicated the center to them and to future corpsmen.

He praised them for their "outstanding record in connection with the bloodmobile program," and lauded one, who was not identified further, for rescuing a Transylvania county man from a burning wrecked automobile.

As Mr. Taylor spoke, a thin gray pall of smoke settled over the camp from a small forest fire about a mile away. During the ceremony, a group of corpsmen left to help bring the blaze under control.

News From

US Forest Service, Winter Just Ahead

Frosty mornings have again returned to Transylvania county after the warmth of summer. The green leaves of summer have been replaced by the vivid colors of autumn. People have come from great distances to see and photograph the red, yellow and orange colors that make up this annual fall festival. Now the leaves are beginning to fall from the trees and flutter to the ground. Soon the limbs will be bare and winter will be with us once again. As the hiker walks the once bare trails, his feet cause a rustle among the newly

About New Coins

Local Coin Switch To Net The Government $158,130

By means of a bit of abracadabra, Uncle Sam is about to extract some $158,130 from the pockets of Transylvania county residents. And they won't even feel it.

Nothing up the sleeves. It's just a coin trick, trading new coins for old.

Very soon, now, the Treasury Department will be flooding the country with new-style coins containing little or no silver.

Instead of dimes and quarters with a 90 percent silver content, as at present, they will be made of an alloy of copper and nickel.

The amount of silver in the half-dollar coins will be reduced from 90 percent to 40 percent. No change is being made in the $1 pieces.

In Transylvania county, on the basis of average distribution, there are approximately 37 dimes, 20 quarters and 6 half-dollars in circulation per local resident. Their total face value is $11.70.

From the standpoint of metallic content, the $3.70 in dimes are actually worth

$3.46, the $5 of quarters are worth $4.68 and the $3. of 50-cent pieces, $2.81, according to the Mint. The total is $10.95.

The quantity of coins of these denominations belonging to the local population as a whole represents a metallic value of $189,440.

Not all of them are jingling about, at any one time, in people's purses and pockets. Some are in the cash registers of stores, some are in local banks and some are stashed away in sugar bowls at home.

Under the new setup, the metallic content in the coins will drop from $10.95 per person to a mere $1.81.

For all the coins in use in Transylvania county, the new value, after the replacement becomes complete, will amount to $31,310, or $158,130 less than at present.

The difference, called "seigniorage," is a windfall for the Government.

During the first year of production alone, the Treasury Department stands to make a profit estimated at close to $500 million.

If the Government has its way, the money would be called "mis-

Transylvania To Reach '66 United Fund Goal, Final Plea Is Made

Davis Expresses Thanks To All Working, Giving

"Transylvania will go over the top in the 1966 United Fund drive if pledges and contributions that have been made come in," declares Dr. Wilburn Davis, the campaign director.

The goal is $37,200.00, and more donations are expected this week and next week, the director stated.

On the last tally sheet of Carolinas United, Transylvania was listed as having 96 percent of its goal subscribed.

Only a few counties had gone "over the top", and many were falling far short.

"Our citizens have responded generously, and I know I express the sentiments of all solicitors when I say thank you to all persons who have given," Dr. Davis continued.

He also had fine words of praise for the many persons who have worked in behalf of the 1966 campaign.

Using a football term, he called it a "team effort".

Bill Overholt, the executive director, is keeping the office open for late returns, and he urges all solicitors to make their final canvass during the coming week.

Another long list of contributors is carried in this week's Times, and at a later date a complete "Honor Roll" will be carried.

This Is National Education Week... An Editorial

Each Of Us Should Realize The Need For The Very Finest Schools Possible

This is National Education Week, a week of special observance, the basic purpose of which is to make every American aware of the important role education plays in a democracy, especially in these highly technical times, and to make each and everyone realize that good schools are, to a great extent, their own personal responsibility, whether or not they may now have children of school age.

Sponsored by the National Education Association, American Legion, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the U.S. Office of Education, American Education Week grew out of the revelation away back during World War I, that an alarming proportion of American people were illiterate and physically unfit. This special week, observed yearly, is a part of a plan for attaining a program of education adequate to American needs during the 20th century.

During this week all citizens, especially those who have children in school, are urged to visit their schools, become acquainted with the teachers and the work and facilities of the school.

The very future of our country, especially in these days of greater and greater strides in science, is linked with the quality of education being provided for today's children. In addition to standards of educational excellence, are standards of student goals for achievement, as well as an overall increased respect for intellectual attainment.

To have good schools — better schools — everyone must realize that they must be supported financially otherwise. And it is with real encouragement that every citizen interested in schools has noted that in Transylvania and in North Carolina our people have always rallied to the cause of school bond election in years past.

But in addition to finances alone, it is of vital importance that all students be made to realize that in order to complete in the job market today, they must finish school and not drop out before graduation, as too many have had a way of doing in the past, and which is presently the cause of both local and national concern.

We live in an age that is highly complex, and the better an education a student obtains, the better he or she is going to be able to cope with life once school days are behind.
