Inflation Cost Here $565,000

By - Staff Writer

What has been the dollars and cents effect of inflation on the average Transylvania county family in the past year? How much has the rising cost of living reduced purchasing power locally?

On the strength of recent economic studies, it appears that local families had a loss in the year, attributable to inflation, of about $126 on the average.

That is the amount of additional goods and services they would have been able to buy

Author Of "Hot Sunday For Satan" Is Native Of Brevard

By - The Editor

A "VIP" in Brevard over the weekend was Jane Cooke, formerly Jane Anders, of Brevard, who now resides in Salisbury.

Jane Cooke, can lay claim to being a "VIP" because the Vantage Press in New York City recently released her first book, entitled, "Hot Sunday for Satan."

Mrs. Cooke graduated at Brevard high school in the early '50s, and now she and her husband, Sebastian Cooke, are owners and operators of Carolina Five and Ten in the Akers shopping center.

The Transylvania Times will have copies of her book for sale, and she can be termed a "goodwill ambassador" of this area because of the description of Brevard with her picture on the back cover of the book.

Jane Cooke is continuing her writing and presently she has a short story ready for publication.

She works daily at the store with her husband and finds time to write during coffee breaks and during the evening hours.

"Hot Sunday for Satan" was written with no drafts, no footnotes and the like. Actually, she wrote the last part first, and when that wasn't long enough for a novel, she added the first half.

It was written in long hand and then typed. No parts of it were rewritten by the author.

"My author friends tell me that this isn't the way to write a book, but Hot Sunday for Satan was done just that way," she declared.

She is also working on another novel, "Fading Flesh," which

Local Representative For Medicare Cites Experiences

By - H. S. Busby
Box 746, Brevard

After five weeks of covering Transylvania county or the Medicare sign-up effort, and more than 1,000 miles of traveling over dirt roads, byways (and no roads at all), I feel that there was some point in Satan's remark when asked by the Lord: "Whence comest thou?" His reply: "From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it."

For Transylvania county has more mileage between houses and less density of population than most of the rest of North Carolina.

Therefore, to seek out, locate, talk to and bring persons into the provisions of Medicare coverage gives one an appreciation of the tremendous job done by our local Welfare office, not just for one month but for 12 months in the year.

The Transylvania Welfare office is one of the best administered and most ably staffed that I have seen in many states — its staff are all well-trained, devoted people, who keep close tab on the needs of our less fortunate citizens — and their records verify the effectiveness of their work better than do those kept by many business establishments. (I have seen and evaluated in detail both industrial and institutional administrations and from this background can say that the local Welfare office is one of the very best handled offices

Bloodmobile At College Next Monday

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Brevard College Gymnasium on Monday, April 18th, from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m., to secure at least 70 pints of much needed blood.

All the town's people of Brevard, as well as qualified students, are urged to avail themselves of this opportunity to donate and thus build coverage for themselves.

This is the first opportunity this year that Brevard merchants and residents have had to build on their blood accounts against emergencies that might occur in their own families, and it will be well for them to take advantage of it, Red Cross officials say.

"Golden Anniversary" Production Of Little Theatre To Be The Best

The 50th Brevard Little Theatre production promises to be a real Golden Anniversary.

"The Late Christopher Bean" has been selected for this anniversary production to honor the memory of the late Beulah Zachary.

This was the last play directed by Miss Zachary in Brevard before leaving here to enter the television field.

She became director of the popular "Kukla, Fran, and Ollie" show, a position she held at the time of her death.

Miss Zachary organized and directed the original Little Theatre organization in Brevard in the 1930's which ceased to exist when Miss Zachary left Brevard. The organization was revived in 1950 and has continued to the present time.

One of the actors in the 1938 production of "The Late Christopher Bean" is playing the same role in the 1966 production that she played 28 years ago.

She is Mrs. J. A. Macfie, who has appeared many times in Little Theatre productions.

The production was originally announced for April but the dates have been rescheduled for May 13th and 14th in the Brevard senior high school auditorium. The public is asked to make note of this change in date.

On Reporting Woods, Grass Fires Here

During recent weeks, the Brevard Fire Department has answered numerous calls to extinguish woods and grass fires where homes were not actually endangered, local officials state.

Fires of this nature, they point out, can best be fought by forest fire crews who are actually better equipped to handle such blazes than are the city firemen.

The dispatching of both forest fire crews and city firemen to these woods and grass fires is causing considerable cost duplication to Transylvania county, as well as the expense of the volunteer firemen while they are away from their regular jobs.

Everyone reporting woods and grass fires in the future are asked not to call the Brevard Fire Department, but to report them to the North Carolina Forest Service, Rich Mountain fire tower, at 883-4401, or Clark Grissom at 883-2563.

WPNF Broadcasting Baseball Scores During The Afternoon

Sports fans in the area can keep up with their favorite major league baseball teams by tuning to their local station, WPNF.

Station officials announce this week that major league baseball scores will be broadcast over the local station as they are received in the stations' newsroom.

Scores are normally transmitted at the end of each three-inning period, and a wrap-up story is received shortly after the conclusion of each game.

It is felt that baseball interest in the area may be considerably heightened by the entry into the National League this season of the Atlanta Braves.

Special emphasis will be placed on the airing of baseball scores, as well as other major sports events over WPNF.
