

Brevard College's New Leaders Begin Duties

Tom Wolfe, from Wilkesboro, North Carolina, was recently elected President of the Brevard College Student Government Association.

He is active in varied campus activities, as a member of Alpha Beta Gamma and the Clarion staff. Last semester he was a hall proctor in Taylor Hall, thus preparing himself for his present job (unknownst to him).

In addition to his responsibilities, Tom likes to dance (ask the girls he charmed in Mr. Fisher's dancing class) and to run around the track (so says his coach and Tom himself).

The unanimous choice for president, Tom promised to do his best in administrating student affairs. Several students say he has started out "out in the right direction."

Helping him head the school is Lesley Johnson, a music major, who plans to transfer to Greensboro College when she graduates in May.

Lesley is from High Point, North Carolina, and now considers East Beam, first floor as home. She, also, is active in Phi Theta Kappa as secretary, Glee Club, choir, and the MSM.

When asked her two outstanding loves, everyone answered "music and a local boy."

These two leaders have already begun directing the BC "ship of state."

About Kite Flying

Duke Power Company Official Gives Safety Points For Kids

Kite flying is a good sport—but is it a safe sport?

It can be, if a few common sense rules are observed.

It's toward the goal of making kite flying the safe sport that it ought to be that Duke Power Company is distributing thousands of cartoon-type leaflets to the school children of its service area.

John D. Clark, manager of Duke Power's Brevard Branch, said that these leaflets, featuring Reddy Kilowatt and animal characters, would be made available to all school children in the Brevard Branch that could be reached.

Mr. Clark also said that the kite flying leaflets will be available at all Duke Power offices.

The leaflet stresses these six rules:

- ★—Always use dry string, wood and paper in your kite . . . not wire or metal.
- ★—Always fly your kite on days when there is no rain.
- ★—Always avoid busy streets and highways while flying your kite.
- ★—Always fly your kite away from TV and radio aerials, electric or power lines.
- ★—Always keep away from fallen wires.
- ★—Always call your power company if your kite gets snagged in a power line. Do not pull the string or climb power poles.

... about your Social Security

By D. C. NICHOLS
Field Representative

Q. My neighbor down the road thinks there's been some kind of change in the way farmers can report their income for social security credit. What about it?

A. Your neighbor is right. The recent change is in the method that farmers can use in figuring and reporting their self-employment income for social security credit. Since most farmers may have relatively less money income (on which social security benefits are based), and since they face natural risks and circumstances largely beyond their control—such as crop failures due to drought, damaging rains and floods, storms, hail, etc., and even the prices they get for their products—the law allows farmers, and only farmers, to use an optional method that can be helpful to them.

Starting with the 1966 taxable year—if a farmer's net income (after his operating expenses are deducted) is less than $1600, and provided his gross income (before his farm operating expenses are deducted) is over $600, he may report two-thirds of his gross income if it is between $600 and $2400.

Using this optional method, if a farmer grossed over $600 last year he can report (on Schedule F of his income tax return) two-thirds of his gross income up to $2400. This is still true if he actually had a net loss. And even if he grossed over $2400, if he netted less than $1600—or if he had a net loss—he may report and pay the social security tax on $1600 (two-thirds of $2400). However, if his net farm income was over $1600 he cannot use the optional method but must pay the tax on his actual net. For further information ask for the leaflet "Self-Employed Farmers."

Q. From time to time during the year I hire some help on my farm. Several other farmers that I know are in the same situation, hiring more or less temporary farm workers. So this is our question: How much does a farm hand have to make, or how long does he have to work, to be covered and reported for social security?

A. $150 or 20 days. Maybe that sounds like a judge sentencing somebody, but no—it's the reporting rule for a soil, fork in some whole leaves. It is also helpful to place a layer of leaves at the bottom of the beds. Most of our soils need additional humus. They rot in a short time. Do this each year, and soon your soil will be near-perfect.

If you have wisterias, or other vines that have not been blooming properly, try root pruning. This is done by inserting a spade several inches deep in a circle about two feet from the trunk of the plant; if the plant is small, make the circle proportionately smaller.
