uses the economy ax.

The rejection by the House of the proposed new $365 billion debt limit simply says that Federal spending is getting out of hand, and Congress wants Administration support in holding the line on appropriations. Moreover, it has dramatized the problems which our country faces if it chooses to pursue its present fiscal course.

There is no mystery about Federal spending. It must be paid for by the taxpayers, either now or later. Borrowing money in ever increasing amounts only compounds the problems of the dollar and the individuals who use them to buy necessities. Increasing the national debt by gigantic amounts each year brings on the penalties of inflation, taxes, and greater restrictions upon our private enterprise system.

For years now, I have cosponsored a bill to establish a joint Congressional Committee on the Budget to review our fiscal policies in toto rather than piecemeal as Congress now does in the consideration of individual appropriation bills. The national debt poses a major problem, but this problem flows directly from spending more than revenues produce. Congress ought to establish a Committee to come up with appropriation cut-backs for the general budget. This seems to me to be the logical method to control a situation that is getting out of hand.

Little Items of Lively Interest About Folks and

Flower GARDENING

By Mrs. S. R. Harrington

Whoever walks a mountain trail Or kneels upon the sod, Has been so near to heaven's gate he's touched the hand of God.

—Flock

I think that's why everyone loves to get "outside" whether they realize the reason or not. I know when I look out across these mighty mountains I am filled with sincere humility. And the very silence of the forest gives me an inner strength.

Gardening gives those things, too, and there's much to do now . . . spring flowering perennials should have the dead flowers sheared off and the plants cut back if they are becoming too rampant. If more plants are needed, they may be taken up and divided . . . now, as the foliage of spring bulbs look unsightly — all yellow and really messy — don't cut them off, they'll die down quickly and be out of the way on their own . . . If for any reason the bulbs have to be taken up before the foliage is mature, lift bulbs with roots attached and "heel-in" an out-of-the-way place. When foliage dies, bulbs may be stored, or replanted in a new area of the garden now . . . For those fortunate enough to have rhododendron, mountain laurel and piers in their garden, these should have the flower clusters removed immediately after flowering . . . and if you grow heath plants, any pruning you do should be confined to shaping, and this should be done after flowers are past . . . other pruning, now should be the cutting out of some of the oldest stems, at the base, of those shrubs that have completed their flowering for the year. This causes new growth from the ground. Some of the twiggy shoots that bore the flowers may be cut off, too, to freshen the shrubs appearance . . . Summer mulches are important in that they cut down on watering and weeding, and also maintain a more equable soil temperature. There is a wide variety of mulches. Make your own choice. I like sawdust for some things, and pine needles for others. To be more specific, I prefer sawdust for flowers — always adding additional fertilizer with high nitrogen content, and the oak leaves and pine needles for shrubs and thrift. Also for the rhododendrons and azaleas. . . Watch your lilies now for aphids. Spray regularly with nicotine sulphate or malathion to destroy aphids, which transmit the destructive virus diseases that cannot be cured.

Flowers spotted and jotted: over the last several weeks, the gardens of Mrs. Henry Henderson, 544 Country Club road, and Mrs. L. E. Bagwell, Jr., 538 Country Club road, have been ablaze with colorful bloom . . . I've found some African Violet lovers, too. Those who grow them beautifully and have gorgeous collections are: Mrs. L. C. Wilson, Selica; Mrs. Fred Reiter, Boyleston road; Mrs. C. E. Wilmet, Morris road; and Mrs. R. L. Roper, Holden road.

So long, gardeners!
