

WHERE MOONSHINE "WAS" MADE—ABC officers and members of the Transylvania Sheriff's department raided a moonshine still in the Cedar Mountain section Monday afternoon. They destroyed a 100-gallon still and approximately 750 gallons of 10-day old mash.

Also destroyed were many bags of fruit jars and jugs for the illicit whiskey. Several gallons of "moonshine" were poured out prior to the dynamiting of the still. At the left are Deputies Ed Owen and Ray Rigdon and at the right are ABC and federal officers. (Times Staff Photo)

Wilson Ordered To Stand Trial For Murder

A Superior Court ruling has been handed down ordering that A. Ed Wilson be charged with and stand trial for the capital felony of murder in the first degree.

Wilson allegedly shot and killed Harry Blake, a well-known Transylvania horseman and cattle raiser, as Blake was driving his tractor home on August 17th.

The ruling ordering Wilson to be held without bond and stand trial for first degree murder was handed down on Monday by Superior Court Judge Chester Morris, who is currently presiding over this session of Superior Court here.

Judge Morris' ruling stated that sufficient evidence pertaining to the shooting had been shown by the State to entitle the Solicitor of this district to place Wilson on trial on the charge of murder in the first degree.

No date for the trial has been set, but Wilson has been ordered held in Transylvania county jail without bond until the time of the trial.

196 Shares Of Stock In Glen Cannon To Be Sold To Public Immediately

MAKING UNITED FUND PLANS—Dr. Milton Massey, center, campaign chairman of the Transylvania County United Fund, discusses plans for the forthcoming UF Drive with Don Lineberger, left, president of the local United Fund, and Joe Bowles, right, co-chairman of the Publicity committee. The United Fund campaign, which kicks off October 3rd, has an announced goal of $42,964.00.

Money Will Be Used To Build New Clubhouse

Stockholders of Glen Cannon Country Club, Inc. voted to place 196 additional shares of stock on sale at a special called meeting at Brevard high school Monday night.

The vote was 257 for and 15 against placing the stock on sale.

The stock, which will sell for $400 per share, has been made available first to current stockholders. When the stockholders have completed their purchases, the stock will be made available to the general public.

Paul Schlunz, president of Glen Cannon Country Club, Inc., told the stockholders present at Monday night's meeting that the sale of additional stock was necessary if the directors are going to be able to take advantage of a loan that has been made available for the construction of a new clubhouse and other much needed facilities at Glen Cannon.

The loan will not be available after September 25th, so it was necessary to act immediately to place the stock on sale at once.

The stock can be purchased from any of the following directors: Frank McGibboney, Charles Brewer, Jack Byson, J. S. Carpenter, Charles Hines, Wilburn Davis, Walter Clayton, Jack Madden, Henry McDonald and Paul Schlunz.

Traffic To Be Routed Over New Lake Sega Bridge Oct. 1

Construction of the new bridge on US Highway 64 between Brevard and Rosman at Lake Sega is expected to be completed by October 1st, W. Curtis Russ, Highway commissioner for this district, announces today.

Traffic will be permitted over the bridge on that date.

Heavy rains and other problems during the past few months have delayed the opening of traffic across the new bridge, Mr. Russ stated.

Work has been started on several projects in the county to get Transylvania out of the "high water," he continued.

The contract was let last week to prevent flooding of Campbell and French Broad streets near Brevard College which floods during heavy rains.

This week $54,000 was appropriated for paving .03 of a mile off Morris road.

Another appropriation was made on Monday of $39,000 for grading and paving of Bert Lane.

Sam Lance road will be graded, drained and stabilized at a cost of $15,000.

The huge culvert projects on US Highway 276 are being completed, and now every effort will be made to build up the Highway in areas where flooding occurs.

"We are doing our best to get Transylvania out of the high water," Mr. Russ reported to the press Tuesday of this week.

At the present time more money is being spent in Transylvania for road construction than at any other time in the history of the county.

Several other projects are being studied by Highway engineers and surveyors.

Survey Reveals

Transylvania Farmers Gross $1,509,000

For Transylvania county's farm population, the past year turned out to be a better one, all things considered, than had been expected.

Most local operators were able to report incomes that were equal to or bigger than those of farmers and ranchers in many parts of the country.

Contributing to it was the improved operating efficiency and technical know-how of local growers. With more farm machinery at their command and with more intensive use of fertilizers and insecticides, they have been able to get bumper yields per acre.

Also helping to make 1966 a more profitable year than most was the greater demand, in this county and abroad, for agricultural products. It created a rise in the price of many commodities.

The farm statistics, covering the local area and all other sections of the country, were compiled by the Standard Rate and Data Service.

They show that Transylvania county farmers accounted for gross revenues, in the past year, of $1,509,000.

That was the gross figure, before taxes and before deductions for operating costs.

It represented the cash proceeds from the sale of farm goods, as well as government payments and the value of the home-grown items consumed on the farm.

Adult Education Courses Offered, Beginning 28th

The Asheville - Buncombe Technical Institute and the Transylvania County Board of Education announce the opening of the fall quarter of evening classes in adult education on Thursday, September 28th.

At least 15 classes are now being planned. Any adult, 18 years of age or older, not now attending public school may enroll in Basic Adult Education or General Adult Education.

Courses in the basic area will be offered in beginning reading, beginning English, intermediate English, advanced English, mathematics, social studies, and natural science. All classes will be adjusted to the needs of those enrolled. Adults will be able to learn to read or to review in preparation for the North Carolina high school equivalency examination.

Those attending previous sessions will attend classes commensurate with their achievement. Placement tests for those entering for the first time will start September 28th. These classes are offered without cost, and all books will be furnished. All adults who have not finished high school are urged to take advantage of this opportunity of a second chance at education.

The vocational or service oriented general education courses for adults will also start on September 28th. These classes are designed to fill the needs of those adults who have already finished high school or college and want to continue education.

Mr. Bowles came to Brevard College in June after serving for the last two years as Dean of Men, Director of Public Relations and instructor in religion at Spartanburg Junior College, Spartanburg, S. C. A native of Greensboro, he received both the A. B. and B. D. degrees from Duke University.

He is a member of the Brevard Methodist church and serves on the Commission on Ecumenical Affairs of the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist church.

Directors of the Brevard Chamber of Commerce held a lengthy session at their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night in the library.

Numerous committee reports were heard and discussed, but action on most of them was deferred until a later date.

Although the average American farmer has been able to boost his production and increase his gross income, he has not been successful in turning much of his gain into greater net income. The cost-price squeeze has been against him.

And, the recent reports show, the squeeze has become worse during the first half of this year. Prices have been dropping and production costs have continued to rise.

Joseph C. Bowles, Director of Public Relations at Brevard College, has been named co-chairman of the Transylvania County United Fund, according to Donald N. Lineberger, president of the local United Fund organization.

The Publicity committee is another of the United Fund "Action Committees" which have been formed to help coordinate the 1968 Transylvania County United Fund Drive.

This committee has the responsibility of writing all news releases as well as disseminating campaign material and speaking to local civic and church groups concerning the United Fund, its purposes and goals.
