Transylvania Smokers Spend $490,000

The campaign against cig-arette smoking, which has taken on a new intensity in recent weeks, brings up the question of cigarette consump-tion in Transylvania county.

How much are local residents smoking these days compared with people in other communi-ties? What effect have previous health warnings had on their smoking habits?

Judging from the latest fig-ures on eigarette sales in the area, there has been no ap-parent cutback. The average user is smoking just about as much as he did in previous iffe has paid little or no heed to the warning issued by the U. S. Surgeon General in 1964

Nor has the caution "cigarette smoking may be haz ardous to your health," which is printed on each pack of eigarettes, made any notice-able difference.

The net result is that Transylvania county residents smok-ed some 2,077,000 packs of cigareties in the past year, according to a breakdown of regional statistics, released by the to-bacco industry.

This was equivalent to 187 packs a year for every local resident over the age of 18.

It was greater than in s portions of the country and less than in others. The average for this age group, nationally, was 215 packs. In the South Atlantic States it was 220 packs.

Now the Public Health Service has come out with a new warning. For the first time it has stated that there is a cause-and- effect connection between cigarette smoking and heart disease.

Specifically, it declares that the average young smoker in the 25 to 35 age bracket faces a shortening of his life by about eight years if he smokes more than two packs a day. Even the light smoker can expect a reduction of his life expectancy, it finds.

Smoking is becoming a more costly habit in another way, too. Because of tax boosts in many parts of the country, the price of a pack of cigarettes has been mounting.

In Transylvania county, last year, an estimated $490,-000 was spent by local residents for cigarettes. It was at the rate of $44 per smoker.
