Girl Scouting Program Served By United Fund In Transylvania

Girl Scouting

How recently have you heard a friend or neighbor comment on the recklessness or thoughtlessness of our younger generation? How recently have you remarked on the shocking behavior of young people, adding that things have certainly changed since you were a teenager?

We talk a great deal about the teenager these days, but what are we doing about them? Happily, there is something we can do about them through support of the Girl Scout program in Transylvania county.

Girl Scouts of America is a member of the Transylvania County United Fund, asking adults to help finance its program of constructive activities for all girls from seven through seventeen years of age.

Girl Scouting is an active program in the county, with 28 troops serving over 450 girls. Your contribution to the UF campaign will enable more girls to participate in activities designed to help them develop self-reliance, integrity, dependability, concern for others, initiative and whatever native talents they possess.

Girl Scouts learn to express their individuality through creative channels, and they gain experience in working and playing as members of a group. Through scouting, they discover that homemaking, budgeting, marketing, planning, etc. can be fun and that playing the role of an active citizen of the community can be stimulating. Through scouting, our young girls grow into maturity, accepting their responsibilities as wives and mothers and as leaders of their community.

We who talk about today's youth have an obligation to help them in their search to discover themselves. Girl Scouting offers our community an opportunity to stop talking and act. Your support of the United Fund campaign will enable this program to continue its effective work among the young women of Transylvania county.

The University of North Carolina School of Pharmacy, with 311 undergraduate students in the last three years, ranked 11th in undergraduate enrollment among the 73 pharmacy schools in the U. S.

Library Has Exhibit Of Water Colors, Painted By Monty Hey

The Transylvania Public Library, continuing its modern function as a cultural center, is currently displaying a collection of water colors painted by Monty Hey of Fort Myers, Florida.

Mr. Hey has exhibited here on several previous occasions, and the Friends of the Library welcome this opportunity for the public to enjoy his paintings again.

In one picture a bright red roof, in another a group of children lends gaiety and charm to appealing scenes. A startlingly different use of the artist's imagination appears in the depiction of a duel fought by two skeletons—a stark comment on war's futility.

A native of Australia, Mr. Hey has spent most of his life in western Canada and in New York State, but for the past sixteen years he and Mrs. Hey have lived in Fort Myers, spending the past five summers in Hendersonville.

Mr. Hey has studied with a number of teachers and helped to organize the Art League of Fort Myers. His pictures, chosen by juries to hang in many shows, reveal the influence of both his Florida and his North Carolina experiences.

In The Evening Of Life

By D. H. Orr

In the evening of life
When the work is all done,
We are through with the strife
And the victory is won.
The old clock of time
Is about run down,
It will soon cease to chime
For it cannot be wound.

We sit in the gloaming
Of the sun in the west,
Far behind is the roaming
What a wonderful rest.
At the end of the way
No regrets and no sorrow,
What a wonderful day
Awaits us tomorrow.

Sometimes it was stormy
More oft it was fair,
Sometimes the road thorny,
But we did not despair.
Life's evening sun
Is sinking fast,
Our race is run
What rapture at last.

When the sand is running low
The day's end is near,
It is wonderful to know
We have nothing to fear.
For we have trusted the Lord
And His power to save,
And lived by His word
And the commandments He gave.
