

FROM THE EDITOR'S CORNER

By
EDITOR JOHN ANDERSON

Brevard College's new president, Rev. Robert Davis, is a busy man these days.

All week he stays snowed under with duties here at the college, and then on weekends he preaches somewhere in North Carolina.

Last Sunday morning, he preached at Duke Chapel at Duke University.

President Bob says the college here is looking forward to a good year.

New buildings are being completed prior to the opening, and a student body more than 600 is expected. A fine faculty and staff have been employed.

Today you hear so much about young men and women leaving their hometowns and going elsewhere to seek fame and fortune.

It's good to see some of them return.

This week we are glad to announce that Gil Coan is returning to Brevard to be associated with his father in the insurance and real estate business.

He's a fine young man, and the official announcement will be made next week.

Welcome back home, Gil!

It was good seeing Cary C. Boshamer in Brevard over the weekend.

Mr. Boshamer is a Trustee of Brevard College, and the donor of the Boshamer Gymnasium and the new addition to it.

Actually, we would estimate that he has given more than a million dollars to Brevard College.

He was in Brevard Saturday to give Louise Causey away in marriage that afternoon.

We don't know all the details, but we wouldn't be surprised if Louise didn't study on a Boshamer scholarship. He gives a large number each year to outstanding students here at Brevard College, the University of North Carolina and other schools.

By the way, before he left Saturday, he pledged $1,000 to the "Fund For Your Life" campaign.

A few more donations like that and we would reach our new, one million dollar goal.

Thanks, Cary!

If you are subject to spells of fishing fever or hunting hots, you'll get a lot of enjoyment from a new booklet, "Fishing and Hunting—North Carolina" recently published by the Travel and Promotion Division of the Department of Conservation and Development.

The cover is illustrated with a half dozen beautiful color photographs, and the book is filled with professional pictures illustrating some of the fish and game boated and bagged in North Carolina.

If you want to throw yourself into a sudden fever—whether you're a fisherman or a hunter—write for your free copy of "Fishing and Hunting" from C&D, Travel and Promotion Div., Raleigh, N. C. 27602.

The only thing that makes a woman glad to put on an old dress is if she still can.

Truth is like a cat — no matter how one twists it around, it will always land back on its feet.

The average man is 69.1 inches tall and 161.9 pounds in weight.

In World War I the average adult male stood 67.7 inches tall and weighed 142 pounds.

During World War II he was 68.4 inches tall and weighed 155 pounds. Recent studies, according to the American Seating Company of Grand Rapids, Michigan, have shown that on the average sons are 1.3 inches taller and as much as 10 pounds heavier than their fathers at the same age.

Had a good golf game with Joe Clayton the other day.

Joe, you might say, was the first of a long line of Clayton athletes.

He started playing baseball here in Brevard back around 1926, and then he played professional ball and coached until 1951.

He was one of the "greats" like Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and others.

We'll be telling you more about him in a feature story later.

Inside WASHINGTON
MARCH OF EVENTS

IF WALLACE RUNS AGAIN
IT COULD HURT NIXON

MOST OBSERVERS THINK
HE'LL BE BACK IN RACE

By HENRY CATHCART
Central Press Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—George C. Wallace, former governor of Alabama, is estimated to have taken three out of each four votes he received from Richard M. Nixon in last November's presidential election. Nixon just squeaked by to win the White House and become the first minority President in modern times.

Given the apparent popularity of the so-called "white back-lash" voters, as shown in the voting in Los Angeles, Minneapolis, and New York City, it is highly likely that Wallace can do better in 1972 than he did in 1968.

What this means is that the so-called "conservative" vote in the United States could go even more heavily in proportion to Wallace in 1972 than it did in 1968. There is a question in the minds of some whether Wallace will make another run for the White House but, to sophisticated observers, it is an easy "yes" answer. Wallace, these "political experts" are convinced, will run again in 1972.

Without Wallace in the race; it could be a foregone conclusion that Nixon would be re-elected to the presidency for a second term. It is apparent that the old, or Roosevelt style liberal, has lost a lot of his appeal at the ballot box. Yet, with the conservative vote split by two, such types on the presidential ticket, even Hubert Humphrey, certainly an old style liberal, was gaining fast by election day last year, and there are many political observers who believe that, if he had had another week to campaign, he'd have won all the marbles.

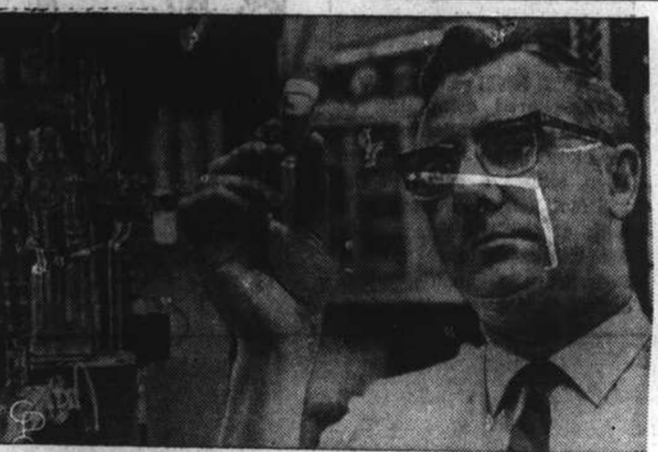

It should be apparent that, whoever runs for president on the Democratic ticket in 1972, he will not be saddled initially with the multiplicity of public relations and other drawbacks that beset Humphrey from Chicago on. In fact, before that debacle occurred, his popularity was questioned by anti-Johnson Democrats who believed he was nothing more than a front-man for the Texan.

NEW HIDE-AWAY!—President Nixon apparently has found a retreat that won't take him hours to reach, but that still affords him the kind of privacy he likes to work in.

The hide-away is an office in the White House Executive Office Building across the street from the regular offices. He explained to reporters the other day that he felt "out of the line of fire" when he was there, much as he does at Camp David.

Like the latter place in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland, when he is in his hide-away office, people somehow don't feel as free to barge in and talk as they do in his oval office in the White House itself.
