Commerce Directors Support A Favorable Vote In Election

Directors of the Brevard Chamber of Commerce have gone on record in support of the one cent local sales tax increase that Tar Heel voters will go to the polls to vote on this November 4th.

This action was taken at Tuesday night's regular monthly meeting of the chamber in the library.

County Commissioner "Guis" Siniard and Brevard Mayor R. F. Bennett, both directors of the Brevard Chamber of Commerce, explained to the other directors and members in attendance just what the one cent sales tax increase, which will all stay right here in Transylvania, would mean to both the city and county.

It was pointed out that, based on last year's sales figures for Transylvania, the one cent increase would bring approximately $205,000 in increased revenue into Transylvania.

Of this amount, a certain percentage would go to the municipalities of Brevard and Rosman, while the remainder would go to the county.

It was pointed out that this opportunity to bring additional tax money into this county by means of a sales tax increase would probably be the only such opportunity that will arise.

Should the local voters reject the one cent increase at the polls, the next General Assembly, in all likelihood, will pass such an increase anyway, and the individual counties of the state would not benefit like they will if the increase is adopted at the polls in November.

After much discussion on the subject, the directors voted unanimously to adopt a resolution favoring passage of the proposed sales tax increase.

In other business, the directors authorized the finance committee to make funds available, if necessary, to the merchants division to assist in their Christmas lighting program this year.

A report from the highway committee was heard, and the directors were shocked to learn that there is apparently no record at the Highway Department in Raleigh on any proposed plan of construction of the Williamson's Creek Road from Brevard to the Du —Turn To Page Seven

United Fund Is A Community Organizing Itself, Kerr Says

"Basically, I view the United Fund as the community organizing itself to see that the work of all member agencies is continued for the benefit of all citizens of Brevard and Transylvania County," commented John Kerr, Associate Campaign Chairman of the 1969-70 Transylvania County United Fund campaign drive.

"If every citizen in Transylvania County could carefully review the work of all 14 agencies, then there would be no problem in raising enough funds for this type of campaign," he said.
