

Agricultural Students And Duke Power Plant Seedlings

Students of agriculture in Transylvania county have an opportunity to secure a total of 200,000 pine seedlings on a matching basis with Duke Power Company.

Vocational agricultural teachers in the high schools of the 34 counties served by Duke Power Company received the offer this week from Ronald M. Bost, manager of the Forestry Department of the company and C. V. Tart, Chief Consultant of Agricultural Education of the State Department of Public Inspection.

Duke Power Company will pay for one half the cost of the seedlings, as long as they are ordered in multiples of 500. Students may order Lob-lolly, Long Leaf, or White.

"We are delighted with this splendid example of cooperation by Duke Power Company," State School Superintendent Craig Phillips said, "and we hope a considerable number of our students will take advantage of this matching offer."

Mr. Tart said all orders should be sent to him as soon as possible. Information on how to order and other details may be obtained from all agriculture teachers in the 34 county area.
