Commissioner Announces

Several Roads In The County Are Now Ready For Paving

E. J. Whitmire, North Carolina Highway Commissioner for this district, was in Brevard Tuesday to meet with the County Commissioners and the Road Committee of the Brevard Chamber of Commerce.

At that time he announced the completion of various road work projects in the county during the past year.

The following roads have been graded, drained and covered with a stone base.

They will be in line for paving during 1971.

They are as follows: Cole Mountain road 2.0 miles, Kim Miller road 2.3 miles, Raxter road 1.8 miles, Pettit loop 1.4 miles, Trett road .3 mile, Osborne road .1 mile, Old 280 2 mile and Walnut Hollow road 1.4 miles.

In keeping with Governor Scott's interest in helping those who are developing recreational facilities that will attract tourists and furnished employment for local people, he has allocated $25,000 of his surplus funds to pave the Little River Camp Ground road, Mr. Whitmire stated.

The Commissioner told of his keen interest in Transylvania, and he said he was doing everything possible to see that this county gets its share of road improvement work.

The lengthy breakfast session was held at Berry's.

Brevard Elementary, Junior High And Rosman Buildings Covered In Lengthy Report

The Transylvania Board of Education and the County Commissioners in a joint meeting, heard the results of a survey of four county schools by North Carolina State School Planning officials last Wednesday night. The evaluation by Department of Public Instruction educators, engineers and architects, concluded that several school buildings are in such condition that no major renovations should be made. Rather, they recommended that the buildings be torn down and replaced on the sites or buildings be constructed on new sites.

In response to a request by the Transylvania County Board of Education, three members of the state School Planning Division staff conducted an evaluation of the facilities at Brevard Elementary, Brevard Junior High, and Rosman schools during the latter part of December last year. The resulting evaluation and recommendations were presented at the joint meeting by Dr. J. L. Pierce, Director of the Division of School Planning, North Carolina Department of Public Instruction.

"The evaluation was requested in the clear knowledge of numerous deficiencies in Transylvania school facilities," says Harry C. Corbin, Superintendent of Transylvania County Schools. "The School Board's desire was to have a survey and clear recommendations from our own state school planning authorities as to exactly what are the minimum required improvements in our county school facilities."

Because of the importance to the entire county of this school facility survey, the text of the evaluation and the recommendations will be published as a two-part series beginning this week.

Says School Superintendent Harry Corbin, "We want people to realize the true condition of our schools and would like to generate as much public interest as possible in a search for ways to improve the situation."

The verbatim evaluation of the first two schools — Brevard Junior High and Brevard Elementary — with the recommendations, follows here. The Rosman school evaluation and recommendations will be published next week.

BREVARD JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Brevard Junior High School is located on a site adjacent to Brevard Elementary School and consists of five buildings containing 25 teaching stations, library, gymnasium, and cafeteria. The site is fairly compact and internal traffic pattern between the buildings is accomplished with minor problems.

The 1923 three-story main classroom building with gymnasium, library, and 16 teaching stations is a substandard educational facility. The gymnasium is a converted auditorium and the shower-locker facilities are extremely poor and hazardous. This facility is of ordinary construction with most internal walls load bearing. Much of the exterior mortar is soft and has deteriorated. The heating system is of cast

For Town Election

Friday Is The Last Day To Register

Registration for the beer and wine election, to be held in Brevard on Saturday, February 27th, will end on Friday of this week.

This is not a new registration. Persons who have voted in previous Municipal elections and are still residing in the same precinct do not have to re-register.

The registration is held for new voters and for those persons who have moved from one precinct to another.

Saturday, February 20th, is Challenge Day. The hours are from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. in the polling places.

"If there is any doubt about your registration, please call the registrar in your precinct," the election officials state.

Mrs. M. Marian Schlunz, who resides at 216 Probert street, is the registrar for Precinct No. 1.

Mrs. Reba K. Russell, 34 Franklin avenue, is the registrar for Precinct No. 2.

The books are open each day, through Friday, from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. at the home of the Registrars.

The election has been called to determine whether or not the legal sale of "Off-Premises" beer or wine shall be permitted in the Town of Brevard.

It was called by the Mayor and the Town Board after a petition, signed by more than 25% of the registered voters in the town of Brevard, had been presented to them for action.

If the election is approved, beer will be sold only in independent stores that must be approved by the state ABC Board. Wine will be sold only in the local ABC store.

It is stated that "Off-Premises" means that the beer or wine can be sold only in containers for consumption away from the premises where it is sold.
