"BEATING THE HEAT"—The Western Carolina Community Action group has operated a six-weeks recreational program in Transylvania, which has involved some 160 boys and girls. The highlight feature of the program is the portable

Other Verdicts Handed Down In Criminal Court

Thirty five additional jurors were empanelled here Tuesday evening in Transylvania County Superior Court as the regular jury list was exhausted trying to select a jury to hear the case of nine young men charged with the possession of narcotics.

It took attorneys in the case from noon Tuesday until noon Wednesday to select the jury, and evidence was just beginning to be heard as the Times went to press Wednesday.

The nine charged with possession of narcotics were arrested in a trailer near Brevard in a big raid conducted by local, county and state law enforcement officers in the early morning hours of this past April 17th.

Those currently standing trial in the case are Dennis E. Galloway, Mike L. Edwards, Mike Saunders, Robert A. Palmer, James Ray Fowler, Danny Ray Voltrath, Dean Martin Landreth, Kenneth Smith and Charles Smith.

Judge George M. Fountain of Tarboro is presiding over this term of Criminal Court here which has been somewhat slowed by the length of the narcotics trial and another case where the jury has been pondering its verdict for over 24 hours.

In that case, Jerry L. Fennicut has been charged with assault on a female child or less than 12 years of age. The jury started hearing the case on Monday, retired to consider the verdict at noon Tuesday and was still out as the Times went to press Wednesday.

Other Cases
Dennis Wayne McGee pled guilty to several charges of forgery, and was sent off for a medical examination before being sentenced by the court.

The Grand Jury returned true bills of indictment in several cases, in addition to its tour and inspection of facilities at the jail and court house here. The report is elsewhere in this issue of The Times.

True bills were returned in the previously mentioned narcotics case against the nine charged, against Steve Logan Lance, charged with robbery, against Sandra B. Suttles, charged with forgery, against Leonard McKinney, charged with assault on a BOARD CHAIRMAN J. D. SYKES congratulates Trustee William E. Hartman on the completion of the new Melody Dormitory at its dedication last Saturday at the Brevard Music Center. Hartman headed up the group of Flat Rock - Hendersonville area residents whose generosity resulted in the new $20,000 structure which provides housing for thirty-two advanced division students and their counselors. Full title to the building was later presented at the ceremony to Dr. Henry Janiec, Director of the Music Center, who commented that the new facility represented a living memorial, destined to serve youth through music, for many years to come.

Three Fine Concerts

Past Favorites Return To Music Center For Weekend

Past favorites of Transylvania audiences return to Brevard and the Music Center in a weekend of programs featuring home-grown talent. This Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the Center features a double opera, one by last year's composer-in-residence Russell Smith, the return of former cello student Martha Gerschefeld and the first concert of the season by pianist artist-in-residence Lee Luvisi.

Luvisi has a long enviable record for one so young. Only 33 yet one of the ranking pianists in the country, Luvisi made his first public appearance at the age of 8 then, went on to study at the Curtis Institute and upon graduation was appointed to the faculty of the distinguished school, a distinct honor for one so young. Many concert and recital appearances followed, including appearances with Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic and with Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra. Reviews were all in praise of the young pianist. Typical was the judgment by the New York Times that "His playing has near infallibility".

Luvisi, artist-in-residence at the Center, is familiar to local audiences, who remember his excellent performance of a series of all-Bethoven concerts last year. Probably no one artist has expended so much concentrated energy on a single composer in such a short period of time, and to such stunning effect. A man of such talent and devotion to the classics is both a joy to his audiences and an inspiration.

Survey Reveals

Local Area A $7,155,000 Food Market

How much is the average family in Transylvania County spending per year in local retail stores? How does the spending pattern locally compare with that in other areas of the country?

Answers to these questions are provided by the Standard Rate and Data Service in its annual report on consumer markets, just released.

It reveals, for each community, the amount that was spent in the past year for food, clothing, cars, furniture and other commodities.

Because most Transylvania County families were in relatively good financial shape, thanks to rising incomes, their purchasing power continued to be high, despite the inroads caused by inflation.

The figures for the local area show that more money was spent in grocery stores, meat markets, supermarkets, delicatessens, bakeries and other food emporia than in any other direction. The biggest part of the consumer dollar went for food.

The sales volume in these stores came to a grand total of $7,155,000, as compared with the previous year's $6,392,000.

In addition to this outlay, a sizeable amount was spent in lunch rooms, restaurants and other places where food and drink are consumed on the premises.

In effect, approximately 34 cents out of every dollar spent in local retail stores was for take-home food. It was more than in many communities.

Throughout the United States generally, 22-cents was so-spent and, in the South Atlantic States, 23 cents.

On a per family basis, if the total food bill were distributed equally among the local population, it would have amounted to $1,185 per family for the year.

The report gives figures, also, on the amount of business done by other types of retail stores in the local area.

Those selling cars and other automotive equipment had sales totaling $3,188,000.

General merchandise and department stores reported a volume of $1,575,000, as against $1,463,000 in 1969.

Those specializing in wearing apparel accounted for $858,000. The previous year's total was $844,000.

Sales of furniture and other home furnishings added up to $1,276,000. Last year they amounted to $1,441,000.
