She also graduated from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and has done graduate work there both in art and elementary education. In commenting about his appointment as Admissions Director Ives said, "My experiences during the past 10 years with Brevard College have caused me to love the college not only for sentimental reasons which I do have, of course, but because of what Brevard College stands for and what Brevard College can offer to many of the young people in the college situation today. Some of the most important things would include a close student-teacher ratio and a personal atmosphere here on the campus with the courses being taught by well qualified people. There is something very different here from the usual university setting we sometimes observe across the country."

Two Little League All-Star Teams To Play In Buncombe Tourney

Two Little League All-Star teams have been selected by their managers and teammates to represent Transylvania county in the big Little League Tournament beginning next week at the East Asheville Recreation Field at New Creek in Buncombe county.

In the past, the league champions and one All-Star team participated in the tournament, but this year, league officials decided that two All-Star teams might have a better chance of winning the tournament.

All-Star players were chosen by their own teammates (two from each team team), and then the remainder of the squads were selected by the two All-Star team managers, John Danielson and Bill Pressley.

All-Star team No. one, selected from the Braves, Cardinals, Colts and Panthers, will face Hominy Valley next Tuesday night at 8:00 p.m. Team members include: Greg Frisbee, Robby Danielson, Alan Norris, Marc Landreth and Tony Caroway of the Braves; Jim Perkins, Jim Hyatt and Mike Gunn of the Cardinals; Norman Masterson, Kevin Norris and Jeff Nissen of the Colts; and Tim Childers, Drew Martin, and Jeff Perkins of the Panthers.

Coaches of this All-Star team will be John Danielson and Richard Landreth of the Braves, Tony Dodson of the Cardinals, and J. T. Perkins of the Panthers.

All-Star team No. two, selected from the Red Sox, Mets, Cubs and Pirates, will play Clyde in the tournament next Wednesday night at 8:00 p.m. Team members include: Doug Pressley, Donald Austin, Mitch Stamey, and Tony Smith from the Red Sox; Danny Roberts, Rusty Barnes, Jon Winchester, Ricky Rice and Terrell Garren from the Mets; Eddie Lowery, Mike Perry, John Price and Larry Graveley from the Cubs; and David Parker and Terry Paxton from the Pirates.

Coaches of this All-Star team will be Bill Pressley of the Red Sox, Wilburn Roberts of the Mets, and Ray Edwards of the Cubs.

The two teams will play a practice game against each other this Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. at the E. L. Lynn Field at Pisgah Forest.

All-Stars Play Canton Friday At 8 P. M.

After concluding their most successful season ever, teams and managers of the Transylvania Minor League have selected a fine All-Star team that will meet a similar All-Star squad from Canton here on the E. L. Lynn Field at Pisgah Forest this Friday night at 8:00 p.m.

The two teams will meet again in Canton on Saturday, July 31st at 2 p.m.

The Haywood county lads felt the sting of two defeats at the hands of the local All-Stars last year, and they are expected to come over the mountain this Friday night loaded for bear.

They'll have to be ready, however, because the All-Stars here boast experience, depth, and excellent coaching, and should be able to hold their own against similar age group teams from anywhere.

Dennis Hamilton, who coached his Panthers to both the regular season and playoff championships in the local Minor League, will serve as head coach of the All-Stars. He will be assisted by Joe Whitaker of the Cardinals, John Alan McCrary of the Red Sox, and "Preacher" Graves of the Giants.

The Minor League All-Stars include: Stanley Cannon, Rick Robinson, Doug Whitaker, Mark Blackwell, and "Chuck" Weiss from the Cardinals; Rick Roberts, Dave Hogsed, Randy Bryson, Jack Cole, Kevin Lusk, and Scott Goodson from the champion Panthers; Todd Norris, Alan McCrary, Mike McGee, and Terry Marley from the Red Sox; Joey Graves, Mike Davis, Timmy Madison, and Brendon Crite from the Giants; Mike Deal and John McDonald from the Yankees; and Al Jackson and Joe Gaiten from the Tigers.

All baseball fans are urged to come out Friday night to see the fine brand of ball that these youngsters play, and to cheer them on to a big win over the Canton All-Stars.

Panthers, Braves Win Playoffs In Minor And Little League

The two regular season champions of the Minor League and the Little League here proved that their titles were no fluke as both teams emerged victorious in the post-season playoffs last week.

Dennis Hamilton's Panthers fought off the challenges of two gallant foes, the Braves and the Cardinals, to successfully defend their regular season title in Minor League play.

The Braves battled the Panthers right down to the wire before finally losing by one run Friday night, and then the Cardinals took up the torch and carried the champions into an extra inning before also losing by a one run margin in the title game Saturday night.

In the Little League, the Braves managed only one scratch hit off losing pitcher Doug Pressley of the Red Sox, but they took advantage of the youngster's wildness in the first inning to open up a four run advantage that was never overcome.

Greg Frisbee went all the way for the victors on the mound, striking out eleven and scattering five hits effectively. The battling Red Sox closed the gap in the final frame, but it wasn't quite enough as the Braves won 6-5.

The Braves defeated the Pirates and the Mets to earn their spot in the finals, while the Red Sox had whipped the Panthers and the Cardinals in their earlier playoff contests.

The league playoffs ended the most successful season ever for the youth baseball program here, with only the All-Star games in each league remaining.

Officials and managers of all leagues extend their sincerest gratitude to all parents and fans who contributed so much to help make the season so worthwhile and beneficial to almost 300 Transylvania youngsters.
