Cathey's Creek News Reported

By - Mrs. Ken Riley

CATHEY'S CREEK—Our section suffered its worst storm of the season one day recently, when the wind blew and whipped the beautiful corn to the ground. Some damage was noted but when the sun shone on the downed corn it quickly raised back up.

A bingo party was held at Red Hill center on last Saturday night with 23 attending and a nice time was enjoyed by the adults as well as the children. Several lovely prizes were won.

This section wishes to convey its very heartfelt sympathy to the family of Mrs. Jessie Garren, who passed away after several weeks in an Asheville hospital.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Eubanks were Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Eubanks and son of Warrenville, Ohio.

Hobert Barton visited an uncle Lonnie Barton one day last week. The Bartons are former residents and live in South Carolina now.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Eubanks visited Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Snider at Etowah. Then they went to visit with E. C. Harrison who is a patient in Margaret Pardee Hospital.

Tuesday night visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ben West, Faye and "Uncle Adger" Capps in Brevard were Martha Eubanks and Russell.

Ethel Lee and Mrs. Lolan Eubanks and daughters Sherry and Rosie visited Rocky Bottom, S. C., and attended the singing on Saturday night.

Jack McKinney of Franklin visited his parents last weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Tom McKinney.

Carroll Nicholson, who is employed in Charlotte as traffic manager, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nicholson and sons.

The family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Julius Barton of our section had a get-together over the weekend. Those from out-of-town were: Charles Barton of Newport News, Va., Roy

New Officers Elected By The Transylvania Legal Secretaries

The Transylvania Legal Secretaries Association held their first annual installation service at 7:30 p.m. July 12, in the Council Room of the Municipal Building. The newly elected officers installed at that time were: Ruth Bryson, President; Etta Jean Byrd, Vice-President; Geraldine Ferguson, Secretary-Treasurer; Opal Armentrout and Wanda Smathers, Finance Officers; Carol McCall, Publicity Officer; Hazel McCormick, Program Officer; and Gail Baynard and Diane Hall assisting the Publicity Officer and the Secretary-Treasurer, respectively.

The Association held its first organizational meeting in May, 1970, with the idea of affiliating the local group with the State and National Association of Legal Secretaries. After exploring such possibility at length the group decided to organize only on a local basis and on July 14, 1970, the Transylvania Legal Secretaries Association elected the following officers:

Hazel McCormick, President; Etta Jean Byrd, Vice-President; Ruth Bryson, Secretary - Treasurer; Opal Armentrout and Wanda Smathers, Finance Chairman; Gail Baynard, Publicity Chairman; and Karen Radford, Program Chairman. These officers served until July 12, 1971 and turned over their respective offices to the newly elected officers.

The Association was organized to provide a means whereby all those persons involved with law would have an opportunity to educate and acquaint themselves with all types of legal work and to afford fellowship with those involved with a similar means of endeavor.

Any person may become a member if that person is licensed to practice law, or engaged as a secretary, stenographer, typist or clerk in any law office, any person employed by the Courts, the Trust Department of banks or trust companies or in any public or private institution directly engaged in work of a legal nature, including all public offices. The regular meetings are held on the second Tuesday of each month at 12:00 noon at Gaithers Rhododendron Room.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—Just before she arrived at my apartment in the late afternoon of a hot day, Jo Ann Pflug had received word that she would be Peter Sellers' leading lady ("and get second billing, don't forget that") in his new picture, "Where Does It Hurt?"

"This, coming right on the heels of her return from Spain where she had completed "Catlow," the MGM picture starring Yul Brynner, made it very, very clear to Jo Ann that she now is operating in a good "block." Good WHAT?

"Good block," she repeats, "speaking numerically. You know—numbers. In the meteorological sense, I am operating in the right block of numbers."

"Six months ago I was in a very bad block. Things were so slow and discouraging I had to keep jumping off the Brooklyn Bridge."

I asked, "Do you jump off the Brooklyn Bridge often?" "When things go wrong," she confirmed, a great, big, beautiful smile breaking over her face. "You see, I have a picture of the Brooklyn Bridge. Every time I feel desperate, or unhappy, I take it off the wall, put it on the floor, and jump OFF. Always believes a lot of pressure."

A couple of hours later, I had begun to see that the smash from "M*A*S*H" had a totally original way of expressing herself, and THAT'S an understatement. Just when you've started thinking she's the most beautiful kook around these parts, she goes logical and straight-talking. But before you get too used to this, she's back to "blocks" and "bridges." For example: "Isn't Jo Ann Pflug an unusual name for a beautiful lady? She's more unusual than Engelbert Humperdink and he's a beautiful man."

Preminger huddled, as they say in the industry, with Robert Altman. They looked my way. Just as I was getting around to dessert, I got the word. They wanted me to screen-test for their picture that very afternoon—for Lt. Dish, the sexiest turned-on Army nurse in military history.

Getting into more personal matters, how's her love and/or marriage life? "I've never been married. I've been very much in love. But I'm not now, thank God! Right now, it is very important that I belong to myself. I suppose some people are happy in love. I'm only truly happy when I fall out of it. I don't expect this to last forever. There's got to be a man somewhere in this world who won't collapse on me the minute I get interested."

It turns out, Jo Ann came to Hollywood by way of Atlanta, Ga., and the University of Miami, where she won so many beauty contests she began to feel if you've won one beauty contest you've won as many as you need.

Her father, J. Lynn Pflug, was an actor who turned CPA before becoming mayor of Winter Park, Fla., where Jo Ann spent most of her childhood. Later, in Atlanta, she won a tour acting as an ambassador-at-large for the American Broadcasting Company. Wearying of this, she settled in New York, where she began cropping up on the "Tonight" show with Johnny Carson and spending daytime hours at the Actors' Studio.

One day, out of the blue, her "ribes" told her she should come to Hollywood. "Oh, it didn't happen overnight. I worked in almost every known TV show here and got nowhere. I weathered a couple of years of good and bad blocks before "M*A*S*H" and now these two top pictures right in Peter Sellers a row!"

Obviously, Jo Ann has not felt the urge to "jump off the Brooklyn Bridge" in six months. She may never again.

"All children need advocates, voices in the community, who represent children in community decision making. Children are helpless in that they cannot speak for themselves.

Today, many stresses in our society make it difficult for the traditional advocates to be heard. No single agency in the community speaks for the total child. In Brevard, the agencies have made an effort to coordinate services for children through the 4 C due to the efforts of the true program.

The success has been chiefly due to the efforts of the true advocate or champion of children, Betty McGuire. Betty has recognized the importance of good child development programs for all children. She has believed enough to give unselfishly of her time, energy, and talents. As a representative of an agency that speaks for children, I express sincere appreciation to you, Betty, for all your efforts.

I am especially grateful for your thoughtfulness and concern for all children regardless of environmental conditions or circumstances of birth. We have made much progress toward a coordinated child care program. You are responsible for this.

We wish to express our gratitude through this award for outstanding service to our county and the children, who are its most valuable resources."

Other participants in the Barton of Miami, Fla., Dicie Clark of Statesville and daughter Robinette Tilley and children. They all visited Mrs. Reba Stamey, Vernon and Fred Barton of our section and met at Mrs. Stamey's. It had been near 20 years since they had all gotten together.

Carl Couch of Penrose visited Mr. and Mrs. Ken Riley and family Sunday.
