College Group To Perform At British "Music Center"

The group, composed of students, faculty and alumni, and under the direction of Harvey Miller and Joan Moser, will present a variety of vocal and instrumental selections.

The contests include symphony orchestra, symphonic band, marching band, stage band and choral organizations, as well as an international piano competition.

Ann Curtis, a pupil of Sam Cope, and Tim Piper, a pupil of Harvey Miller and both recent graduates of the college, will enter the piano competition.

The Brevard ensemble includes a flute trio and a wind choir of brasses and woodwinds. Vocal selections will feature the works of Frauentholtz, Dunstable, Mendelssohn, Billings, Bergsma and Vaughn Williams, along with two compositions by Miller for voices accompanied by woodwinds and vibraphone.

The group will also present a selection that was written for Lord and Lady Guildford when they visited Greensboro three years ago.

Appalachian folk music will be included and excerpts from recent popular selections. Piano accompanist for the ensemble is Adelaide Miller.

To Combine With Tour
"Time not spent rehearsing or performing will be spent touring England," says Harvey Miller. "The itinerary includes an overnight stay and sightseeing tour of London, visits to Portsmouth, Windsor, Hampton Court, Woodstock, Bladen and Wales as well as the time spent in Guildford at the University of Surrey and at Conventry, at the University of Warwick.

"We are sure this will provide many pleasant memories,"

Widely Recognized
The main purpose of the ensemble is to perform on occasions such as this. It was formed out of the band, glee club, and other performing individuals at Brevard College with the planned capability of performing instrumental, vocal, and vocal-instrumental works, according to Mr. Miller.

Following the performance, the group will spend another week visiting England and

The group has already achieved wide recognition in their home country; now it stands to achieve international recognition.
