Vallandingham Gives Support To Mission Of The Apollo 15

U. S. Air Force Staff Sergeant James L. Vallandingham helped provide specialized support essential to the success of the Apollo 15 lunar-landing mission.

Sergeant Vallandingham of 12 Varsity St., Brevard, is an EC-135 Apollo Range Instrumentation Aircraft (ARIA) technician. He is a member of the Air Force Systems Command (AFSC) team who helped keep Astronauts David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden in communication with earth.

Four ARIA crews from Patrick AFB, Fla., supported the lunar mission in the Pacific Ocean. They participated in the coverage of the critical trans-lunar injection burn and remained on station in the Pacific throughout the re-entry and recovery.

ARIA crews communicated with the Apollo spacecraft through a seven-foot-diameter, dish-shaped antenna installed in the nose of the aircraft. The ARIAs are part of a worldwide communications network also employing radio stations, land and submarine cables and communications satellites.

Sergeant Vallandingham is assigned to Air Force Eastern Test Range headquarters at Patrick. The organization is a part of AFSC which manages research and development of USAF aerospace systems.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions And Answers

By NORRIS G. GRUBES Field Representative

Q. I am 66 and out of work right now. However, I may start working again within a year or two. Could I apply for monthly social security retirement benefits and, if I start back to work again, have my checks stopped?

A. Yes. You may start and stop your checks as often as necessary. And, depending on how much you earn when you do go back to work, you may be able to get checks for some months. Regardless of how much you earn you can get a check for any month you don't earn over $140. Remember, too, that when you reach 72, you can get your check every month no matter how much you earn.

Q. I am 64 years old. I retired when I was 62 but did not sign up for social security retirement benefits because I wanted to wait until I was 65 and could receive a full benefit. I have now decided to go ahead and apply for the reduced benefits. Can I get my checks all the way back to the month I was 62?

A. No. An application for social security retirement benefits can be retroactive for no more than 12 months.

Q. I would like to take my young son to a social security office and get him a social se-cial security card. Does he have to be a certain age?

curity card. Does he have to be a certain age?

A. No. There is no minimum age for getting a social security card.

Q. I am 68 and collect monthly social security retirement benefits. But I also work part-time during the year. How often should I ask the social security office to refigure my benefits based on additional earnings to see if I am due an increase in my check?

A. You do not have to request the social security office to refigure your social security benefits. This is done automatically each year.
