Laugh Corner

An elderly man complained that he couldn't hear his telephone ring, and a louder bell was installed for a week-and-a-half trial. "Can you hear the phone ring now?" the man was asked at the end of the week.

"No, I can't hear it," he said. "But don't take it out. Everytime the phone rings the dog howls and I can hear him."

"It looks like rain," commented the waitress as she served the customer a cup of coffee.

"Yes," answered the customer, "but I'll drink it anyway."

Realtor: Would you like to see a model home?
 Man: Glad to. What time does she quit work?

"I'm in a tough spot," the small boy said to his mother. "The teacher said I must write more legibly, and if I do she's going to find out that I can't spell."

"I'm sorry, lady," pleaded the stranger at the door, hat in hand, "but I just ran over and killed your cat. I hope you'll forgive me and I want to replace him."

"Well, don't just stand there," the housewife scolded, "get busy, there's a mouse in the kitchen."

Staying at the office late to play poker with his friends, the meek little man suddenly realized it was 2 a. m. With a gleam of inspiration, he telephoned his wife and dramatically shouted: "Don't pay the ransom—I've escaped!"

Man to his neighbor who's stopped by without his wife: "You say your wife is at home sick. Hope it's nothing serious, old boy."

Neighbor: "No, not really, I just closed her checking account and I think she's having withdrawal symptoms."
